Airline lays off 1,000 employes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Airlines today announced it will furlough more than 1,000 employes, including 300 pilots, and cancel 100 daily flights because of the fuel crisis.

Edward E. Carlson, president of the nation's largest airline, said the cancelations had been scheduled even before President Nixon announced Sunday an additional 15 per cent cut in jet fuel delivery for the airlines.

Carlson indicated that the new cutback would result in still more layoffs.

Before United announced its cuts, the airline industry had trimmed more than 500 flights from its domestic schedule on grounds of jet fuel shortages.

Carlson said the additional United flight cutbacks would be effective Jan. 7. But the airline will begin furloughing "immediately 300 pilots and 650 flight attendants," he said.

In addition, Carlson said United would have to cut its manpower levels "in other employment areas," running the total over 1,000.

United has 48,000 employes, including 5,500 pilots and 7,469 stewards and stewardesses.

The new cuts will constitute about 9 per cent of United's flight schedule.

According to United, the Jan. 7 cancelation will conserve about 8 million gallons of jet fuel a month. Earlier this year, United cut back 37 daily flights.

Carlson said the additional 100 daily flights would not affect "basic service" to the public.

Details on the specific cities which would lose flights will be made public within the next two weeks, he said.

United's action was a unilateral move. The Civil Aeronautics Board had given permission to domestic airlines to hold talks on joint flight cutbacks.

Carlson said "no one really understands yet the impact of the present fuel situation on the industry."

The energy crisis "is going to be with us for a long time," he said. But Carlson said he hoped the country would never allow itself to be placed in a position where "other countries can dictate to us."

"Our schedule reduction plans were prepared before President Nixon announced further energy consumption reductions Sunday evening," Carlson said.

The new fuel cutbacks ordered by Nixon will require further study, he said, but indicated they would result in more flight reductions and layoffs.

Carlson revealed the cutbacks in flights and personnel during a breakfast meeting with reporters.

May extend embargo

Arabs using oil power as wedge for demands

By United Press International

Leaders of the Arab world worked today on a tough plan for using the "oil weapon" to regain lost territory and Israel said it would be willing to give up some occupied lands provided its security was guaranteed.

A prominent Egyptian political leader said in Cairo Monday Egypt's army was "fully prepared" to intervene if desert truce talks with Israel fail to break a deadlock over troop withdrawals along the Suez Canal.

Generals from Israel and Egypt held their ninth meeting Monday without any reports of an agreement on troop pullbacks. The two sides scheduled another session for Wednesday.

Arab leaders, including kings, presidents and guerrilla chiefs, met for the second day today at a summit conference in Algiers.

Political sources said the leaders were considering a working paper extending the oil embargo to other countries besides the United States and Holland. They said new nations to be hit might be Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal.

The sources said the paper would also demand Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands seized in the 1967 Middle East war, including parts of Jerusalem.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's call for a Middle East peace conference next month was also expected to figure prominently in the Arab stand.

Israeli Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon told a student group in Tel Aviv Monday the troop pullback issue would be the first item to be settled at the full-scale peace conference if not settled during the desert troop talks.

Allon said, however, Israel would have to return some of the Arab territory it captured in the 1967 war, provided there is a guarantee of Tel Aviv's security.

"Territorial changes will be necessary but the changes should not be exaggerated," Allon said. "The settlement should be such as to prevent a surprise attack."

In Cairo, Dr. Hafez Ghanem, first secretary of the Arab Socialist Union and one of the nation's leading politicians, said the ASU planned a political offensive at home and abroad before the peace conference opens.

He also sounded a warning over the deadlocked truce talks.

"Our armed forces are watching closely Israel's prevarication in implementing cease-fire arrangements and they are fully prepared to intervene if the situation so requires," Ghanem said.

Diplomats: Arabs mean business in Europe ultimatum

ALGIERS (UPI) — Diplomats attending the Arab Leagues summit meeting here are making no bones about their determination to deliver a virtual ultimatum to Western Europe to stop supporting Israel or face an even tougher oil boycott.

In private and public statements Arab leaders make it clear the European community rather than the United States will be the main target for their drive to isolate Israel because of Europe's heavy dependence on Arab oil.

Simultaneously, the Arabs have singled out for criticism the only Communist eastern European nation that still has relations with Israel—Romania, Arab diplomats said.

The maverick Bucharest regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu will be requested by the Arabs to break off diplomatic and economic relations with Israel, conference sources said.

STOCKING UP

Using all the energy he can muster, a New Yorker struggles with six gasoline cans after making purchase Monday. As cuts in gasoline availability loomed, retail stores were reporting that consumers were buying up gasoline cans despite Fire Department warnings on the danger of storing gasoline.

FDA warning

Apricot pit food said to be poisonous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) warned today that two health food products made with parts of the apricot pit contain a poison which could kill both adults and children.

The FDA identified the products as "Aprikern" and "Bee-Seventeen," which it said are being sold in health food stores in at least 30 states as special dietary supplements.

It said that the products contain hydrogen cyanide, a substance which naturally occurs in apricot pits but is dangerous in the concentration in which it exists in the products.

The products are sold in capsule form, the agency said.

The FDA said that the "Aprikern" capsules contain an average of two milligrams of hydrogen cyanide each and its scientists estimate that a child could be poisoned by swallowing five of them. It said 20 capsules could be fatal to an adult.

The agency said it estimated that two packets of "Bee-Seventeen" contain enough of the chemical to cause cyanide poisoning in a small child.

FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander Schmidt said the agency had unsuccessfully tried to get the distributor, General Research Laboratories of Van Nuys, Calif., to voluntarily recall the products. He said the FDA would take "appropriate legal action" to stop the products from moving in interstate commerce.

"Complete withdrawal of these products is hampered by two facts," Schmidt said. "They are sold nationally in thousands of retail outlets and each outlet usually carries small quantities.

"In addition the manufacturer has refused to release distribution reports. For these reasons the FDA must rely in great part on public attention to help get the products out of distribution channels," he said.

The FDA said studies made with rats at the University of Arizona supported its figures on the threat of poisoning.

The agency said consumers and health food stores should destroy any of the two products they have on hand.

Hijackers release 255, heading toward Yemen

BEIRUT (UPI) — Three Arab guerrillas freed 255 captives aboard a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet in Valletta, Malta, then flew to the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Dubai where they refueled and took off again, a Dubai Airport spokesman reported.

The Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) 747 took off from Dubai airport after a three-hour refuelling stopover. The spokesman said the plane left at 6:40 p.m. (9:40 a.m. EST) and headed in a southwesterly direction. KLM said in Amsterdam it was flying to Aden, the capital of Marxist Southern Yemen.

The plane was carrying 10 crewmen and a vice president of KLM who boarded at Valletta as a voluntary hostage. Since the Sunday night hijack the guerrillas have taken it to Damascus, Cyprus, Libya, Malta and Dubai.

Officials at the Libya Tripoli airport said today the takeoff Monday of the fully loaded plane was a "miracle." They said the plane used a runway that had been closed for 25 years and "is certainly unfit for landings and takeoffs." They said it almost collided with construction equipment on takeoff.

Diplomatic sources in Beirut said if the plane flew to Aden the hijackers might be given refuge and a safe conduct.

The Dubai airport official said during their stay at Dubai's modern airport, the hijackers made no demands beyond the one for refuelling. He said nobody left the plane and nobody went aboard. He said airport ground staff put 2,000 gallons of fuel into the plane's tanks.

Many skeptical, bewildered

Valley reactions mixed toward energy cutbacks

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Gilbert Fox is almost totally dependent upon the automobile. For his livelihood, he must drive between 700 and 1,000 miles a week. He is a traveling salesman.

"Yes, I worry about the energy crisis," he says. "But I know that I can cut down on my mileage and restrict my driving by better planning and by using the telephone more."

Fox, who resides in Alta Loma, claims he can save 25-30 per cent on fuel by changing his driving habits. Instead of jumping in his car and driving off without knowing for certain if he will meet prospective clients as he's done in the past, he will now rely on the telephone to confirm such meetings.

He feels the President's latest proposals to conserve energy are good, but he admits he is skeptical.

"I think his (Nixon's) ideas are good, IF they're needed," Fox says. "We've been told so many lies in the past, people don't know what to believe today."

Like Fox, other area residents surveyed by the Progress-Bulletin believe measures must be taken to conserve energy, but how to do it and to what extent leaves them uncertain and somewhat bewildered.

One point all agree on, however, is that everyone must make the sacrifice.

Don Moore has been the manager of a shoe store in the Montclair Plaza for the past five years. Energy could be saved and operating expenses trimmed, he believes, by cutting out unnecessary lighting and changing business hours.

"The amount of business hours wasted is ridiculous," Moore says emphatically. He does not feel that the amount of business justifies the long store hours. Too often, he says, employes stand around with nothing to do because there are no shoppers.

Moore proposes closing down at least two days a week, or limiting operations to 50 hours a week. Stores and shops could still do a profitable business, he maintains.

"People always found a way to shop (during limited hours) before, and there's no reason why they can't do it now," he says.

"The lights in these stores could be cut by 30 per cent, and people could still see," Moore adds. "It might even create a better atmosphere, and it would certainly reduce the overhead. Then the savings could be passed on to the consumer."

A nice theory, but even Moore admits it can only work if all shop owners take part.

"Everyone has to participate, otherwise it wouldn't work," Moore says.

A Chino liquor store owner, John LoPorto, has turned off half the lights in his store in an effort to conserve the now precious energy.

He was critical of large shopping centers that don't cut down on Christmas lighting.

"People won't try to conserve energy voluntarily," says a retired Ontario man who did not want to be identified. "They are going to have to make a law."

Very likely that is what is going to happen. The three congressmen who represent districts in the Pomona Valley said Monday that Congress would pass legislation sometime within the next two weeks giving President Nixon the power to mandate energy conserving measures.

"I will give you a flat guarantee that it will happen," Rep. George Brown, D-38th Dist., said.

Brown and his colleagues, Representatives Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist. and Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., agreed that their main concern now is the effect the energy crisis will have on the nation's economy.

"We are facing some very serious economic dislocations," Wiggins said. "It is highly possible that many thousands of Americans may find themselves on unemployment or out of a job.

"It's important that our country embark upon a plan that would make us self-sufficient for energy."

Pettis said he would prefer that conservation measures be left on a voluntary measure, but he isn't sure that "such a serious problem like this can be handled on such a basis."

"This is not a matter of supporting the President," Wiggins added, "it's a matter of supporting the country."

"The effect on our economy will be felt the most next summer, unless there is a change on the part of the major oil-producing countries," Wiggins said.

Home insulation trade boom creating delays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are so concerned about the energy crisis that they've created a boom in the home insulation business, with the result that orders are now running weeks behind schedule, industry officials said today.

The shortage could get even worse, the officials said, if fuel cutbacks — particularly natural gas—force the industry to slow production.

The demand is being created by the government's advice to invest in insulation to cut down heat loss and by the consuming public's efforts to compensate for turned-down thermostats and the possibility of more serious home heating problems as the winter progresses.

About 90 per cent of all residential insulation used in this country is mineral wool— fiberglas or rock wool. Sheldon Caddy, executive director of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, told UPI that manufacturers are now behind in their shipments to such a point that there is a three week delay in delivery. He said the situation is "definitely unusual" and his trade organization is being "flooded" with inquiries.

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, has been circulating an energy-saving tip sheet which says that six inches of added insulation can save the average homeowner 20 per cent on his fuel bill. Even more impressive figures come from George J. Haufler, executive vice president of Certain-Teed Products Corp., a major insulation maker from Valley Forge, Pa., who says that 50 per cent of the existing houses waste one-third of the fuel supplied them because they have no insulation at all.

Haufler told Congress recently the industry should be exempt from any fuel cutback so its furnaces, largely fired by natural gas, could go on burning at the required high temperatures.

U.S. budget falling deeper into the red

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although administration officials are still looking for a balanced budget June 30, 1974 —the end of the fiscal year —the federal budget was $5.5 billion in the red at the end of October.

Treasury Department said Monday the government took in $17.6 billion last month but spent $23.1 billion, leaving a $5.5 billion shortfall for October, the fourth month of the 1974 fiscal year.

Brandt, Pompidou huddle over crisis

PARIS (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and French President Georges Pompidou conferred for the third time in 48 hours today on the oil crisis and European security.

Peace talks looming as key to Arab oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today indicated to leaders of Congress that he does not expect any loosening of the Arab oil embargo until some progress takes place in Arab-Israeli peace talks.

Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reviewed the Middle East peace situation and the energy crisis with 21 senators and House members at a meeting in the White House Cabinet Room that lasted nearly two hours.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters afterwards that the question of the lifting of the embargo by the oil-producing states in the Arab world "depends on the progress of negotiations as the peace conference hopefully gets under way."

Arab and Israel representatives are expected to meet in Geneva Dec. 17-18 under United Nations auspices to start peace negotiation.

Fulbright said that "the period of the embargo" will depend on the progress made in moving toward implementation of a U. N. Security Council Resolution that ended the 1967 war and provided for withdrawal by Israel from conquered Arab lands. It also established a recognition of the need for secure borders by Israel.

Fulbright said that in the long term, the United States has resources of its own which it can develop to meet its energy needs.

But he added, "in the short term, it's very difficult."

The Arkansas Democrat said the bleak outlook applied even more to Europe and Japan which are so more dependent on the Middle East for their fuel supplies.

In other aspects of the energy crisis:

—The President's top energy adviser, John A. Love, testified at a Senate hearing that higher prices —not more tax breaks — should be allowed to induce industry to find sources of energy the nation needs.

—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who previously had indicated gasoline rationing was around the corner, said he now believes "there is a good chance" it will not be necessary.

—The Baltimore Sun said among additional steps being considered to conserve fuels of various types are a four-day school week, reducing weekday hours for gasoline sales, a surtax on consumption of electric power and closing national parks to private cars.

—The Washington Star-News said an additional 10 per cent cutback in gasoline supplies may be imposed in the next few weeks, above the 15 per cent reduction announced by Nixon Sunday.

—United Airlines announced it would lay off more than 1,000 employes, including 300 pilots, and cut out 100 more daily flights because of the fuel crisis. The flight cutbacks are effective Jan. 7, while the furloughs will begin immediately.

—Budget Director Roy L. Ash said the economic damage from the energy crisis "won't be as bad as some fear." He added that unemployment likely will rise "a bit, but not as drastically as predicted" by some.

Nixon renewed his plea Monday for Americans to curb their use of fuels and pledged to resist gasoline rationing.

At the same time, Speaker Carl Albert indicated the House would act within the next two weeks to give the President most of the authority he has requested to implement his energy saving proposals.

FILL UP ON HUMOR

The operator of a service station in downtown Detroit combines his sense of humor with his announcement that he will follow President Nixon's directive of no gas on Sunday.

Sunday gas shutdown beginning to take hold

By United Press International

Businesses and state governments have begun voluntarily complying with President Nixon's plea to conserve energy.

Several major oil companies, including Standard of Ohio (Sohio), Phillips Petroleum Co. and Skelly Oil Co., said they would close their company-owned stations at 9 p.m. Saturdays and all day Sundays.

Sohio Vice President Robert Griffin also asked independent dealers with Sohio franchises to join in the weekend closings.

The New York State Thruway Authority announced it was closing gasoline stations on the 559-mile toll road on Sundays. The thruway itself and restaurants along it will still open Sundays, however.

New York state already had lowered speed limits to 50 miles an hour in response to an earlier plea from Nixon. Authority Chairman R. Burdell Bixby said even though Nixon is asking for a 55 m.p.h. limit for trucks and buses, it will remain at 50 m.p.h. for safety reasons.

Robert Jacobs, executive secretary of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Associations, said his groups support Saturday night and Sunday closings. But he said since stations would lose 15 to 20 per cent of weekly sales, they will fight for reduced rents charged by major oil companies.

Fifteen trucking firms in Michigan said they would voluntarily slow their trucks to 55 m.p.h. to save fuel.

Chicago's Lindbergh Beacon atop Playboy Towers on North Michigan Avenue will be darkened because of the energy crisis. Playboy Enterprises Inc. said it would turn off the world's most powerful aviation beacon to encourage a spirit of cooperation among Chicagoans."

The avenue may not be completely dark. The North Michigan Avenue Association said it will ask for approval to light the traditional small Italian bulbs in trees lining the avenue during the Christmas season. Electricity used in Chicago is produced "almost entirely by coal and atomic power," and not by petroleum, the association noted.

The association also recommended that stores along Michigan Avenue continue lighting first floor windows to aid police patrols after dark.

Most power companies in New England announced cuts of 5 per cent in voltage during peak early evening hours to save as much as 1,300 barrels of fuel oil a day.

The most noticeable effect on the public may be shrinkage of television pictures, a spokesman for Northeast Utilities said.

Suit ruling goes to auto makers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge, ruling against California and 27 other states, has held that auto makers cannot be forced under antitrust laws to clean up car-caused air pollution as a public nuisance.

U.S. District Judge Manuel Real dismissed 34 class action suits against General Motors, American Motors, and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, which includes the major American automakers. The decision, made last week, was revealed Monday. The antitrust laws are meant to preserve "free and unfettered competition—no more and no less," the judge said, and there is no evidence that the problem of auto exhaust pollution is caused by a conspiracy or combination in restraint of trade.

But, the judge said, the auto manufacturers have made a "less than spectacular" effort to fight engine-caused air pollution.

Scuba diving expedition back home after $11,000 Cuba 'repair bill' paid

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — A 16-man scuba diving expedition detained for five days in Cuba flew home today after paying a $11,000 "repair bill" on its chartered plane.

Al Hichew, a retired Air Force colonel who was at the controls of the plane when it made a forced landing Thanksgiving day, said he was "misled" over Cuba by the Havana control tower and ordered to land under threat of two MIG fighters.

"There's no doubt in my mind that they meant business," said the 48-year-old Hichew, a former wing commander of the Strategic Air Command.

The expedition included 14 divers and two crewmen of the chartered twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar. The group landed here in a fog at 5:15 a.m. EST after a brief stopover at West Palm Beach to clear customs and refuel.

They said the Cubans were unaware the chartered jet once belonged to the late Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Hichew, the spokesman for the group, said he and his companions were treated well, fed adequately and were housed in a hotel "they (the Cubans) think is pretty good but what you might call second rate.

"They watched us pretty closely all the time but there were never any armed guards," he said.

He said that after landing at Jose Marti airport they were detained at the airport for seven hours before being taken by bus to the hotel. He said they were always together and in rooms fully screened and fully curtained.

"Several of us, including myself, were interrogated— perhaps interviewed would be a better word—by members of the military," Hichew said. "I got the indication they were representatives of some intelligence outfit."

"We had no contact at all with any high Cuban officials. We were dealing with the working level. Everyone was very friendly, and very gracious, but not responsive," he said.

The Floridians praised the help of Canadian tourists they met at the Deauville Hotel in Havana.

"We got tremendous help from the Canadian tourists," Hichew said. "They freely offered us any money they had when they left and they were the ones who brought out word on our situation."

Bulletproof-glass courtroom site of prison escape case

LOS ANGELES — Jury selection has begun behind bulletproof glass in the trial of a Palo Alto man and woman accused of taking part in the bloody Oct. 6 ambush of Chino prison guards transporting a prisoner.

Monday a motion to transfer the trial from the newly constructed $54,931 security Los Angeles Superior Court room was denied.

The defendants facing charges of murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and rescuing a prisoner are Robert Seabock, 22, and Jean Hobson, 44. The pair are accused of ambushing a state car, shooting two prison guards, one fatally, and rescuing California Institution for Men inmate Ronald Wayne Beaty.

Authorities claim that the ambush and rescue was plotted by a Marxist revolutionary group called the Venceremos, for whom Beaty had written several poems and news articles in the group's newspaper.

In the courtroom bulletproof glass and a heavy steel partition separates the audience from the principals in the case.

Richard Walton, Seabock's lawyer, had asked that the trial be moved from the special courtroom because "it provides a different treatment and atmosphere than that which surrounds any other trial in this county."

Attorney Hugh Manes, representing Mrs. Hobson, joined Walton's request, saying the partition will have a prejudicial effect on jurors.

The security measures were necessary to prevent any possible attempt to free the defendants, officials said.

In addition, the screen was deemed necessary to protect Ronald Wayne Beaty, the convict who was recaptured following the escape and who was expected to testify against the two defendants.

A change of venue was granted earlier from San Bernardino to Los Angeles because of publicity about the killing in the area of the slaying.

Police said the suspects took Bobick's wallet, a color television, stereo set and his car keys, and left the home in the victims car and another car. The suspects were getting gas when they were spotted by Chino police.

Bobick, only slightly injured, managed to free himself and flag down a Montclair police officer in the area to report the robbery.

3rd suspect arrested in L.V. slaying case

LA VERNE — A third suspect in the slaying here Nov. 11 of Jon Balfour Soupcoff was arrested this morning on suspicion of murder.

Richard Rodarte Rodriquez, 24, 16036 Rowland Ave., La Puente, was surrendered by his attorney, Joseph Eischen, West Covina.

Rodriquez joined two others arrested Friday night in connection with the stabbing of Soupcoff. They are Jimmy Singh Jr. and Johnny Scosio Salazar, both 24 and both of the Rowland Avenue address.

Detective D.F. Griggs said there may be additional arrests. He said he planned to present the case to the district attorney's office later today with a request for a compalint against the three men.

Soupcoff, 23, 508 Meadow Lane, Pomona, was stabbed to death during a fight on the center divider in the 1500 block of White Avenue. Class tells in slam bid

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Play did mean the difference of a lot of IMPS in this first round Swiss team match. Point-count bidding made it easy for both declarers to reach six notrump. The distributions and the wasted jacks in spades and hearts left declarer with no good play for his contract.

Opening lead—9♠

The inexpert declarer decided that his only hope would be to find a doubleton king-queen of clubs or a singleton king or queen in the East hand. Then all else he would need would be a 3-3 diamond break. He laid down his ace of clubs at trick two and was down one.

The expert declarer knew of a better play that would work if West held K-10 or Q-10 doubleton in clubs. He led a two club toward dummy at trick two.

West rose with his queen and led a second spade. Now South entered dummy with a heart and led the jack of clubs. It didn't matter whether or not East covered West's ten was going to be pickled and South was sure of three club tricks.

The bad diamond break didn't hurt. He had 12 tricks with just three diamonds coming in.

Boy friend, 18, too old, girl fears

18 AND 13: (Q.) My boy friend is 18 and I am only 13. I do like him but I know this is a big difference in age, and my mom and dad don't approve of him.

I have tried to break it up more than once. Help! — Criticized in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You know what you should do but you haven't done it. Do it now. Break it up. And make it stick.

FLUTE FRED: (Q.) I have been taking flute lessons since I was in the fifth grade. My mother and father bought me a flute then, and I used to love to play it. But now I can't stand it, and I hardly ever practice.

My sister took clarinet and quit when she was my age (14). I told my mother I was bored with my flute and asked her if I could quit. She gave me a flat no. Please help me. — Bored in New York.

(A) You have a great deal of time and work invested in that flute and you should think seriously before you quit it completely. You could ease up in your practice and lessons during the next few years, which are going to be busy, and then perhaps go back to it more seriously later.

But if your mind is made up that you and your flute are finished forever, your mother should not inflict it upon you any longer just for principle's sake.

Pomona moves to control annexation area

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The City Council Monday night unanimously voted in favor of an attempt to extend its annexation potential in unincorporated territory north to the proposed Foothill Freeway to gain control of the freeway's interchange at Garey Avenue.

The action is at wide variance with a "gentleman's agreement" reached in 1966 with neighboring Claremont. This agreement placed the northern boundaries for Pomona's sphere of influence further south in the general vicinity of Briarcroft Road.

In voting for the extension, the council at the same time went along with a recommendation from City Administrator Jerrold Gonce agreeing to accept the decision of the Local Agency Formation Commission without "debate" by either of the two city staffs at a LAFCO hearing Wednesday.

Gonce told the council he and Claremont City Manager Keith Mulrooney "did break bread together" over the matter and that the two administrators had agreed it would be "foolish" for the merits of either side to be debated before LAFCO.

Gonce added that he did not know if the Claremont City Council had agreed to this understanding.

In a written report to the council, Gonce said:

"Since the final responsibility for the establishment of spheres of influence rests with LAFCO and since the citizens of the area under consideration must vote in the affirmative to be annexed to Pomona or Claremont, I believe this matter should be given to LAFCO for action without debate from either city."

The area Pomona is interested in adding to its sphere of influence is west of Williams Avenue, northwest of the Thompson Wash and just north of the proposed freeway route.

The council last week strongly hinted it would try to move its sphere of influence northward, citing, among a number of things, the importance to Pomona of the proposed freeway interchange at Garey, one of the city's primary north-south arterial streets.

The freeway presently stops at La Verne and its proposed extension east through Claremont has drawn strong opposition in that city. But in 1972 when put to a citywide vote, Claremonters decided in favor of the extension by a margin of almost 3 to 2.

Opposition in Claremont was noted by the Pomona council last week.

City Planner Sanford Sorensen, in his written report to the council, said:

"Through a vote of the people, Claremont's official policy is one of supporting the Foothill Freeway. This position weakens some of our arguments which relate directly to Pomona's desire to see the Foothill Freeway completed. However, Pomona's control of the Garey Avenue interchange remains one of our best points."

Another city staff-prepared report on the sphere of influence study states that since its adoption in 1963, the city's Master Plan of Land Use and Circulation had designated the Garey-Freeway interchange "as an essential part of the circulation for Pomona."

The report goes on to say that "Claremont will still control access to the Foothill Freeway by virtue of two other planned interchanges in that city, one at Towne Avenue and another at Padua Avenue.

The report says that Pomona is in a position to provide water, sewage, fire and police services to the area Pomona would like to bring into its fold.

While the area presently is "adequately" served by the Southern California Water Co. and no changes are anticipated, Pomona could provide service "if necessary," the report reads.

Sewer mains already exist in Foothill Boulevard and Garey Avenue, fire services already are provided to the area through mutual aid agreements and there is a branch fire station nearby, the report says.

"Police protection is already provided within the corporate city limits with at least one patrol car assigned to the area on a 24-hour basis."

Additionally, street lighting, street tree trimming, library services and refuse collection would all be provided through one governmental agency "already providing quality services in the present city limits," the report says.

It continues by saying that it would be to the slight advantage of property owners to annex to Pomona. The sphere of influence designation is a preliminary step to annexation proceedings.

"If this area were to be incorporated into Pomona, the tax rate would be $13.8010; annexation to Claremont would raise the rate to $13.8631," the report states.

In a related matter, the council in a separate action unanimously authorized Mayor Ray J. Lepire to join a group of mayors representing an area as far west as Pasadena and as far east as Redlands, in pushing for completion of the freeway.

Upland Councilman Harold A. Bailin, president of the Foothill Freeway Association, appeared before the Pomona Council to ask the city's cooperation "in putting a little pressure on."

"We want this thing moving," said Bailin, adding that 13 to 15 mayors already had agreed "to make a unified show of strength."

POMONA — A "Living laboratory," a concept integrating on-campus professionals and facilities into an academic degree program, is part of the new hotel and restaurant management department at Cal Poly.

The university's Kellogg West conference center and personnel are being utilized to give students the widest possible academic and professional exposure, according to Dr. Donald E. Lundberg, chairman of the hotel and restaurant management department.

Kellogg West has meeting rooms, an auditorium, dining area for 700, and residence facilities for more than 100. The facilities will be used as a laboratory for students taking specialized courses from the center's management personnel.

Lundberg cites the use of a conference facility in this manner as a concept used only in one or two other places. "Few places in the world have such a facility like this to use as part of their academic undergraduate program. We have the complete cooperation of the full staff of Kellogg West."

Lundberg points out that because of the availability of the conference center and personnel, courses seldom offered anywhere are becoming a part of the university's hotel and restaurant management curriculum.

Catering management, a four-unit course dealing with all aspects of catering conferences, will be taught beginning winter quarter by Jack Travis, Kellogg West food and beverage director.

Conference management, a course examining the preparation and hosting of professional conferences, will be taught by Dr. John B. O'Hara, the dean of continuing education and educational services, who is administratively repsonsible for Kellogg West.

Wanted: Nixon under oath

At least one congressman has suggested that Richard Nixon owes the nation not only an explanation about Watergate but an apology.

We have not reached that point, and never will, but the Richard Nixon who has taken to the hustings in a determined effort to save his presidency is quite different from the one who castigated the news media a few weeks earlier — witty, eager to explain, without a trace of arrogance or "toughness." In two words, human and sympathetic.

It is a shameful thing that a president of the United States has to go on nationwide television to tell Americans "I'm not a crook."

Aside from that, however, Mr. Nixon's counteroffensive has been good strategy. He has converted the Watergate crisis into a kind of plebiscite (not accidentally basing it in the Nixon-friendly South) that might just head off impeachment at the pass.

Any significant swing of popular sentiment over to the President in the coming weeks — and what American doesn't root in his heart for the underdog? — will not be ignored by a Congress far from eager to set in motion the ponderous and portentious machinery of impeachment.

But while the President's series of public appearances has been of immense benefit to Richard Nixon, what real benefit has it been to the nation?

A presidential press conference, no matter how free-ranging the questions is simply a forum for the President to say as little or as much as he wants to say. There is no chance to follow up a question to pin down a detail, to confront a contradiction.

As far back as April, the President accepted "responsibility" for Watergate. But he never has, really. He still speaks of "overzealous" subordinates, while continuing to praise his two closest aides as fine public servants. He continues to misrepresent such things as Thomas Jefferson's exercise of executive privilege.

We are still asked to believe that one of the canniest politicians of our time was too trusting or polite or preoccupied to ask his campaign manager about what he had been warned was a cancer eating away at his presidency.

One can only conclude that never in the course of Americans events has a president known so little about so much that was taking place in his administration.

If this be innocence, it is an innocence more dangerous than duplicity.

Of course, if Richard Nixon really wanted to clear up Watergate once and for all, he could, as Barry Goldwater and others have urged, present himself before the Watergate Committee (in secret session, to protect both presidential confidentiality and the rights of Watergate figures who have not yet been indicted or brought to trial).

A statement from the Committee clearing Richard M. Nixon of any involvement in Watergate — especially if he had submitted to interrogation under oath — would accomplish more than a hundred appearances before a thousand newspaper editors.

But Richard M. Nixon won't take the simple steps which could make such a finding a reality. Why?

Historic week

The first week of December is an historic one. During it fall three major anniversaries, two international in importance, one domestic.

December 2 is the 150th anniversary of the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine.

December 7, of course, marks the 37th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

On the strictly home base, December 5th marks the end in 1933 of the calamitous Prohibition amendment.

President Monroe had a noble concept of this nation's hegemony in the Western Hemisphere, but it has been tarnished by the communist takeover of our neighbor Cuba, and infiltration of North and South America.

World War II, with its infernal climax in the unleashing of the atom as a weapon, offered nobility only — but in vast measure — in the sacrifice of those who bore its burden.

"Noble" applies to Prohibition only as the key word of a facile distortion of a perhaps overly generous assessment by Herbert Hoover of the intentions of the 18th Amendment's authors. His "A great social and economic experiment, noble in motive . . . " became "The noble experiment," which it certainly wasn't.

Fuel for thought

"The fuel crisis need not mean genuine suffering for any American," says President Nixon, "but it will require some sacrifice by all Americans."

One sacrifice is fewer scheduled airline flights, which suggests an interesting question:

In which category — suffering or sacrifice — would a cutback in the frequency of flights by Air Force One between the Western White House, the Southern White House and the White House White House fall?

Did Nixon obstruct justice?

WASHINGTON — The Watergate prosecutors believe their best case against President Nixon personally would be for "obstruction of justice." They have evidence that he tried to cover up the burglarizing of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. No decision has been made, however, to bring charges against him.

The President repeatedly has tried to block inquiries into the White House plumbers' operation in the name of national security. Presidential aides have told the prosecutors, in deep confidence, that an investigation of the plumbers might reveal that the Central Intelligence Agency eavesdrops on Kremlin leaders.

This is no secret, however, to our readers. We reported as far back as September 16, 1971, that "the CIA has been able to listen to the kingpins of the Kremlin, banter, bicker and backbite among themselves."

We went ahead with the story because the secret transcripts of the Kremlin conversations showed that the Soviet leaders were quite aware the CIA was listening to them. Anything the Kremlin leaders knew, we reasoned, was safe for the American people to be told.

Main excuse

The Kremlin eavesdropping, however, has been the principal excuse that the White House has offered for hushing up the Ellsberg break-in. The burglary was committed by the plumbers, presidential aides told the prosecutors, not to seek a psychological profile of Ellsberg as the public has been told, but to learn the names of Ellsberg's suspected Soviet contacts.

The White House feared Ellsberg had information about the CIA's listening devices in the Kremlin and might tip off his alleged Soviet contacts, claimed the President's people. They had reason to believe Ellsberg had named his Soviet contacts, they said, during his sessions with his psychiatrist.

When Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen discussed the Ellsberg break-in with the President, according to Petersen's account of the conversation, Nixon warned him: "That is a national security matter. You stay out of that. Your mandate is to investigate Watergate."

The new special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, has told senators he doesn't agree with this and will go ahead with an investigation of the plumbers' activities.

Mysterious missions

These include two mysterious missions known only as "Project Odessa" and "Project N-1." White House aides won't even discuss these missions with the prosecutors, although they have promised to let Jaworski see documents and listen to tapes relating to the national security problems.

Some prosecutors suspect that the President has gone to extreme lengths to cover up the plumbers' activities because of his own personal involvement. He not only has admitted that he "approved the creation" of the parapolice plumbers unit but that he "directed" Petersen not to investigate the plumbers' activities.

In the opinion of the prosecutors, this could be construed as obstruction of justice. For subsequent investigations, which were conducted despite the President's wishes, have resulted in criminal indictments.

The prosecutors are also seeking to determine whether the President ordered the former head of the plumbers, Egil Krogh, to obstruct the investigation. Krogh's attorney, Stephen Shulman, has told the court that his client was ordered to lie, if necessary, to conceal the plumbers' operations.

Asked Hoover's help

The White House has acknowledged that Nixon asked the late FBI chief, J. Edgar Hoover, to direct the illegal activities that were later entrusted to the plumbers. Yet the President has insisted that he "at no time authorized the use of illegal means by the special investigations unit."

The President has denied specifically that he had any advance knowledge of the burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Not until last March 17, he said, did he learn about the break-in.

The moment former Watergate prosecutor Earl Silbert learned about the break-in, he immediately informed the court. But the President concealed this crime for more than a month, by his own admission, until then Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst persuaded him on April 25 to disclose it to the court.

Resisted probe

From the beginning, the President has resisted any probe of the plumbers. It was this phase of Archibald Cox's investigation, according to our White House sources, that raised the President's hackles. Now Jaworski is continuing where Cox left off.

The President is upset over Jaworski's attitude but doesn't want to appear to be obstructing another special prosecutor, say our sources.

Jaworski, meanwhile, not only has kept Cox's aggressive young prosecutors but his directed them to go ahead with all their investigations.

To the dismay of the White House, it is beginning to look as if President Nixon may have another Archibald Cox on his hands.

PAUL HARVEY

The clamor of the crowd

If a President can be embarrassed into resigning by the clamor of the crowd, then God help us! Because, thereafter, every elected official must play to the pit. Never will he dare to stand on principle or policy or propriety; never will he dare to do what he believes. Henceforth, elected officials will have to do anything, undo anything, promise anything the mob hollers for.

Confront the clamorers with "What's the President done wrong?" and you get evasive and obtuse answers. Contrary to the historic American tradition of jurisprudence, his accusers construe him to be "guilty until proved innocent"!

Granted, the President has not handled his counterattack in a manner to command public confidence, but part of his indefinite response reflects the vagueness of the accusations.

There were months when he was convinced that this brouhaha would go away, when he could not bring himself to believe that the belaborers would sustain their belaboring.

But they have. Even now some members of Congress are demanding his political scalp. The New York Times, demanding resignation, cited what it considered his crimes to be: the bombing of Laos; impoundment of funds; borrowing from millionaire friends to buy real estate.

Such amorphous indictments are unworthy even of The Times. First, the New York-based media agitated for "impeachment." When it became obvious that there were no grounds for impeachment, the demand was switched to "resignation."

They insisted that the "administrator is so discredited that he is incapable of administering." Horsefeathers! He stopped the bleeding in the Middle East and bandaged the hurts.

With one exception, his votes have been consistently sustained by the Congress on reconsideration.

With all these frightful preoccupations, he is dealing with measurable effectiveness with inflation and the fuel shortage. I'm sure he'd rather be playing chess for foreign chiefs of state, but he has learned the hazard of delegating domestic problems and is tending to them personally and responsibly.

So continuing demands that he "resign" are conspicuously contrived to make political hay at everybody's expense. Again, if a President can be embarrassed out of office, from now on every elected official will have to do, undo or promise anything the mob hollers for.

And the emotional mob may be unreasonable. That's where lynchings come from.

Realty sign removal

The November 19th edition of your paper has an article "Realty firms tend to support sign-removal proposal". While the persons quoted may be your largest advertisers they are not representative of all Realtors. Red Carpet Realtors are a franchise firm that has been in town less than six months and Mr. Murphy is not the broker for the office. He does not live in Pomona. Century 21 Rose Demetriff also is a franchise firm, and I believe Ms. Demitriff lives in La Verne. Hawkins Realty has its headquarters in Temple City, and the manager Bob Woolsey does not live in Pomona. This firm was a leader if not the first to use permanent type signs with a four-by-four post and bracket to support the sign. Mr. Odom is the president of the Pomona Valley Realtors with his office in Pomona but he lives in La Verne.

Gossip for today

Sometimes we get to thinking here in the United States that we are the world's chosen people. But before we get too big for our britches, it might be well for us to remember that Mandarin Chinese is still the language spoken by most of the people in the world. — Furthermore, to keep us properly humble, it should also be pointed out that an Australian holds the world's beer-can throwing championship.

However, lest such deficiencies should tend to give us an inferiority complex, I hasten to add that we can always proudly point to the fact that U.S. citizens are the world's first to enjoy the privilege of having their pictures printed on their personal bank checks.

INSIDE REPORT

The missing 18 minutes of tape

By Roland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Before informing U.S. District Chief Judge John J. Sirica that another key 18-minute segment of the presidential tape recordings is gone forever, White House lawyers pleaded with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski—unsuccessfully—to delay breaking the news.

That Jaworski flatly turned down the appeal powerfully reinforces his status as independent prosecutor. But far more important, the fact that the White House actually asked for a delay shows how ominously this latest fiasco looms in the wary eyes of President Nixon's lawyers.

Indeed, the obliterated 18 minutes of conversation between the President and his then chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman, on June 20, 1972, the first working day after the Watergate burglary, may prove Mr. Nixon's most severe problem of all. Both prosecution lawyers and Republican politicians believe his presidency may hang by a thread when Sirica convenes a hearing on the missing 18 minutes.

Last Wednesday, less than 48 hours after Mr. Nixon had assured Republican governors meeting in Memphis he is not aware of "any more bombs," Jaworski's office received a telephone call from the White House. Fred Buzhardt, Mr. Nixon's lawyer handling the Watergate case, requested and received an appointment with Jaworski at his office.

Documents not forthcoming

Not once in all the weeks since the special prosecution force opened shop under the deposed Archibald Cox last spring had Mr. Nixon's attorneys entered its offices (in a downtown commercial office building). Jaworski's lawyers guessed Buzhardt was about to bring them presidential documents, long sought by the prosecutors and long denied by the White House. They were soon proved spectacularly wrong.

Buzhardt, accompanied by White House counsel Leonard Garment, dropped his bomb: 18 minutes were obliterated from the June 20 tape subpoenaed by Cox. He had no explanation for it. But he had a request: would Jaworski please give him a little time—a few days—to get his ducks in a row before shocking the nation once again?

This was the moment of truth for Leon Jaworski, senior member of the Houston establishment as one of the Southwest's richest corporation lawyers. Moderate LBJ democrat Jaworski had already disappointed the White House with his full approval of the tough investigative approaches of liberal Kennedy Democrat Cox. Now, on Thanksgiving eve, the Nixon men were bidding hard for sympathy.

Had Jaworski granted the delay, he would have committed a heinous offense, particularly in the eyes of zealous deputy prosecutors inherited from Cox—would, indeed, have endangered his relationship with them. Instead, without hesitation, Jaworski said no.

Sirica schedules hearings

The news was immediately carried to Sirica's chambers, and the stunned judge promptly scheduled hearings on the missing 18 minutes. Those hearings may become the most severe test yet for President Nixon.

Unlike the non-existent tapes controversy two weeks ago, the White House had no ready explanation for the missing 18 minutes. The six technical experts now operating under the court's auspices will examine the tape, and each person believed to have handled it — in particular Rose Mary Woods, the President's long-time personal secretary — will testify under oath.

That testimony may pose a new challenge for Jaworski. Sirica, though obviously irritated by the White House handling of the subpoenaed tapes, has shown understandable reluctance to initiate action against the President. Rather, he is looking toward the special prosecutor for guidance. Based on his peremptory refusal to grant the White House a delay last Wednesday, Jaworski is apt to move hard if this week's hearings expose White House shenanigans.

Simultaneously, Jaworski faces another challenge. As reported above, when Buzhardt asked for his appointment the prosecutors thought he would produce documents about the White House Plumbers unit, including files on the mysterious M-l and Odessa projects. Those papers had been denied Cox but were promised Jaworski. However, with Jaworski on the job three weeks now, the papers have still not been produced. He must decide soon whether to institute legal action.

Against this backdrop, Mr. Nixon's ballyhooed "Operation Candor" fades into insignificance. He is still dunned by prosecutors for secret documents and, much worse, is forced to explain highly unusual deficiencies in the physical evidence. Depending on what happens in Sirica's court this week, the worst for Mr. Nixon may be yet to come.

Board and teachers begin meet-and-confer sessions

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Representatives of Walnut School District teachers and the school board began "meet-and-confer" sessions Monday night on five proposals presented by the teachers to the board last week.

The suggestions, dealing with salary and scheduling, were discussed in open board session the previous Monday — a "first," according to Supt. David L. Brown, which he regards as a healthy practice. Presentation of proposals so early in the year is also unprecedented in the Walnut district, he acknowledged.

Under the terms of a state law governing district-teacher relations, these proposals must be worked out in meet-and-confer sessions. These talks must be held "in good faith" to allow a fair opportunity for teachers to participate in the process of governing the district, said Brown, while also providing a proper situation to air and resolve grievances.

Trustees questioned closely the impact of the suggestions, especially financial effects. Responding to the questioning, which was mainly preliminary probing prior to in-depth discussion during meet-and-confer sessions, was Charles Sismondo, a Walnut High School teacher who is 1973-74 president of the district Certificated Employes Council (CEC).

Ray McMullen, director of personnel and planning, is the board's negotiations representative. He presented the outline of proposals to the board. McMullen noted that the first proposal, a request for a 2.5 per cent pay increase, is a holdover from last year's salary negotiations.

During the discussion, it was noted that the salary proposal hinged on "clean up" legislation following the passage of Senate Bill 90, which changed broadly school district financing methods. Availability of funds for the proposal is an item for the meet-and-confer sessions, said Sismondo.

McMullen, responding to a query from Trustee Richard A. Falloon, said Walnut is in the upper 25 per cent of other districts used to compare salary schedules. Trustee J. Edwin Nettell drew from Sismondo an estimate of "roughly" a $75,000 cost for the increase.

Two proposals involved summer school programs — one, that teachers in the summer be granted closer salary parity with regular year instructors, and the other, that teachers be guaranteed a full summer's employment if classes are up to minimum size or better after the fourth day of summer session.

Teachers asked that the district determine a daily pay rate based on 176 days of instruction for regular year instructors then set a percentage of that rate for summer teachers. The specific percentage was not determined, but rough figures produced by McMullen and Brown indicated that presently for similar assignments a regular-year teacher is paid $54 daily, while summer school instructors receive $28.50.

Falloon said he thought setting the percentage pay system would cause discrimination against teachers at the upper end of the pay schedules since summer school administrators might seek to employ instructors at a lower pay rating.

However, said Sismondo, a board policy precludes such discrimination by demanding that instructors be employed on the basis of competence and recency in teaching the subject. He also said that teachers feel the present summer pay rate is an "inequity," since classes require the same amount of preparation, and on a day-to-day basis are close to the length and type of instruction offered during the fuller academic year.

Further, said Sismondo, the CEC feels that summer school is "making a profit at the expense of teachers." (Reports issued at the end of the last session indicated summer school concluded with an excess of funds based on average daily attendance payments from the state.)

Brown, in noting the proposal could hike summer school costs to $40,000, remarked that the program does not have that sum in excess. Again, the matter will be pursued in negotiations.

In covering the assignment proposal, McMullen noted that presently summer school attempts to keep as many classes open as possible. Very rarely, he said, are classes dropped once begun, and not at all on the elementary level after three days. If enrollment does fall, he added, normally attempts are made to keep teachers on in some fashion.

And, said Brown, when classes are dropped, there is more money available to fund other parts of the program — such as a pay increase for instructors.

Teachers also asked the board to consider a "commitment" to a lower pupil-teacher ratio. The CEC's rationale for this request, relayed McMullen, is to bring student-teacher figures from 27.5-1 district-wide at this time, to 22-1 so "very large" classes will be nearly eliminated.

"Where would we put all these classes?" was Falloon's response. The board is struggling with plans for a bond election sometime next year to keep up with growth in student population. Sismondo's response was the proposal was aimed at a district commitment to include the smaller class sizes in planning.

The commitment would be tied to some kind of construction schedule, Sismondo suggested in referring the question to more thorough probing during meet-and-confer meetings.

Finally, the CEC asked that adjustments be made to Suzanne Intermediate School schedules so that teachers there work the same number of minutes in the classroom as elementary level instructors. They said the present difference of 50 more minutes per week at Suzanne is "unfair" since teachers get no salary differentials.

Trustees indicated the proposal would be difficult to work out, since from initial reactions it seems either the school's program must be cut or more staff added.

Over all, the board asked CEC to develop more supporting material for its proposals. Trustees repeatedly asked for cost estimates and possible alternatives to implement the proposals. They indicated discussion of the proposals was limited without such data. Trustee Frank Morales encapsuled these sentiments in asking for at least cost estimates "so we can put these ideas into some context."

DOUBLING HIS HOME

Cecil Alsip, 20838 Lycoming Road, Walnut, works on a 25-foot motor home in front of his home. The owner of A&H Trucking in Los Angeles has been involved in the project more than two months, aiming for completion by Christmas time. Built on a 1969 Chevrolet motorhome chassis, the vehicle will sleep 12, he says, in spacious comfort. In this view he is finishing up sheathing and insulation on the front and left sides, while the right is nearly complete. Alsip estimated his vehicle would cost about $5,000 complete, and a comparable, commercially produced one, $22,000.

Business education class accepting registrations

INDUSTRY — Registrations still are being accepted for the evening business education program at Valley Vocational Center (VVC).

According to Don Roth, VVC administrator, students may avoid daytime crowds and receive more individual attention in the evening program.

"This is an excellent opportunity for those who work days yet would like to upgrade their jobs," said Roth.

The business education program offers classes on data processing, switchboard and office reception, business calculators and secretarial skills such as typing and shorthand.

Classes are held continually from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday, and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Most of the classes take one year to complete, but the evening data-processing class may be finished in 18 weeks, said Roth.

Free on-campus child care is provided during day and evening hours. Additional information may be obtained by calling the VVC at 213 968-4638.

Kung Fu founder coming to MSAC

WALNUT — James Wing Woo, founder of his own system of Kung Fu, will demonstrate the martial art along with Tai Chi Chuan exercises Dec. 11 and 12 at 2 p.m. in the Mt. San Antonio College art gallery.

Sponsored by the college's community services, the demonstrations are open to the public at no charge.

Class schedules trip to museum

LA PUENTE — As part of its goal to enhance family life, the afternoon parent-child participation class at La Puente Community Adult School is planning a field trip to the El Monte Historical Society Museum Wednesday.

"Towns as well as families have histories which should be appreciated," said Mrs. Jean Gandy, the class instructor.

Parents and their children will go by chartered bus, leaving the Hudson Adult Center at 10 a.m. and returning at 1 p.m.

Potpourri of business items coming before Walnut council Wednesday

WALNUT — City councilmen will tie up loose ends Wednesday night in a session covering a multitude of items appeared in previous meetings, including a hotly contested city parking ordinance.

Beginning at 8 p.m. at city hall, the meeting will also include a public hearing on annexation of a new housing tract into the city's slope maintenance district, a resolution ordering stop signs on Vejar Road at Radcliff Drive, a pay increase for City Manger Andy Lazzaretto, and status reports on removal of a city entrance sign and on improvements at Suzanne Park.

Two weeks ago a host of ired homeowners filled the council room to protest renewed enforcement of an ordinance barring overnight parking on the streets. Over their complaints the council agreed to let the ordinance and enforcement program stand. Wednesday the panel will hear a status report on the program.

Councilmen devoted lengthy discussion at their last meeting to the proposed annexation of the Larwin tract to a maintenance district to insure proper development of slopes in the area and future care of the slopes. Approximately 20 acres are involved in the maintenance area, which fronts on La Puente Road and extends along the sides and rear of the 90-acre subdivision.

Another group of residents in the session two weeks ago petitioned the council for stop signs on Vejar at Radcliff. They claimed traffic habitually exceeded the automatic 25-miles-per-hour speed limit, endangering children in the vicinity.

Despite a traffic engineer's report which recommended posting the area for speed but against traffic signs, councilmen agreed to have a resolution drawn up to order the signs placed. That measure will come before the panel for action Wednesday.

In executive session two weeks ago the panel agreed to raise Lazzaretto's $18,500 annual salary by 5.5 per cent. During budget studies last June the council decided to wait on the salary increase until a review this month, which brought the resolution for the increase to the coming meeting. The pay hike will be retroactive to July 1.

A deteriorating, vandalized sign at Lemon Avenue and Valley Boulevard proclaims, "Welcome to Walnut — Home of the Mt. San Antonio Relays" followed by an obliterated and incorrect population figure. Councilmen previously decided the sign, a gift from the Chamber of Commerce, has become embarrassing to the city since its condition is so bad. Cost of repairs would be too high, they decided, so the staff was ordered to investigate removal. A report will come to the panel.

Improvements at the north end of Suzanne Park have been under way since late summer as volunteers and city maintenance crews worked on a pair of softball diamonds. Councilmen will be brought up to date on the projects.

Fathers will join their children

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A fathers' day program will be conducted Saturday, by the parent-child participation class at Bixby Community School.

Fathers will attend with their children.

"Normally, mothers attend with the children," said teacher Lavonne Stranak. "This time fathers will have the opportunity of participating."

Fathers and children will finger paint, easel paint, make blocks, play readiness games, puzzles and have cutting and pasting experiences.

There will be a meeting between the fathers and the teacher to discuss the father's role in the growth and development process of the child.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. and end at noon.

D.B. Homeowners have counter plan to high-density housing development

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, unhappy over a proposed new high-density housing development, has agreed on a low-density counter proposal.

The proposal approved by members that single-family residences be built on 10,000-square-foot lots on the 426-acre site will be relayed to the prospective developer and the county Regional Planning Commission.

The development, proposed by the Donald Schlotz Co., on land west of the Orange Freeway at Pathfinder Road called Roaring Creek, would bring 12,000 new residents into the area in five years

It calls for a combination of townhouses, cluster housing and single-family residences for a total of about 3,000 housing units.

Frank Skrah, publicity director for the homeowners, said the new project first was presented to a joint meeting of the zoning and planning committees of the Rowland Heights and Diamond Bar homeowners associations "after the developers' presentation fell on deaf ears at the county Regional Planning Commission.

"The developers and the homeowners association were so far apart in the areas of rezoning and density that the planning commission sent both groups back to the bargaining table," said Skrah.

The developers had asked to place 8.8 units on each acre.

Skrah said the Diamond Bar Homeowners were making their low-density counter proposal in order to:

— Keep in continuity with existing neighborhoods.

— Preserve the open space atmosphere of the Diamond Bar area.

— Maintain and keep within the existing county and Diamond Bar general plans.

— Acknowledge that the area cannot support with schools, shopping facilities, etc., 12,000 new residents in that short a time period.

— And stress that the association's policy of low density development be adhered to where possible.

Soviets now top naval power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Navy is expanding with pretensions of becoming the world's foremost naval power, a distinction some experts believe it already has achieved.

Last year the Russians surpassed the United States in number of nuclear missile-carrying submarines, though not in number or sophistication of missiles. This year the Soviet navy acquired air power for the first time with the launching of its first aircraft carrier, and a second is under construction.

U.S. Navy officials generally concede the Soviets have a lead in developing ship-to-ship missiles, and now boast a fleet built primarily in the 1960s while the older U.S. fleet still includes many vessels of World War II vintage.

Jane's Fighting Ships, the most authoritative publication on worldwide seapower, said last summer the Soviet navy had made "staggering advances" in just one year. It said the Russians had the "super navy of a super power."

Detractors of the view of a rapidly ascendant Soviet fleet says numbers can be deceiving. They argue that while the Russians outnumber the United States in submarines, 350 to 140, each country has about 100 nuclear subs, the most significant gauge of submarine strength, and the rest are old-fashioned diesel subs.

Naval experts here point to other factors beyond mere numbers as a cause for concern, however, including the growth in Soviet shipyard capacity and corresponding decline in American shipyards.

Another factor in the Russians' progress in matching the pioneering U.S. techniques of refueling and supplying ships at sea, resulting in diminished Soviet requirements for a heavy backup of noncombat support ships.

A bigger worry for U.S. naval planners is the prospect of a growing and improving Soviet carrier fleet, which would enable the Russians to steadily extend the reach of their military might.

Hit-run driver cuts off power

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 1,000 residents and business owners were affected by a 90-minute blackout Sunday caused by the downing of two power lines by a hit-and-run driver.

Sheriff's deputies said they were seeking the driver, who fled on foot after his car knocked down the 16,000-volt and 4,000-volt power lines.

Big car drivers

Montana and North Dakota residents own more cars per person — 690 per 1,000 — than residents of any other state.

Impeachment of President urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two documents published by Washington lawyers during the weekend urge the impeachment of President Nixon, citing more than two dozen alleged crimes ranging from tax evasion to bribery to the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Four public interest lawyers published a 169-page volume entitled "Bribery, and Other High Crimes and Misdemeanors," listing 28 specific "indictable common crimes" for which Nixon could be impeached. It was sponsored by General Motors heir Stewart Mott and was put out "as a patriotic venture," said former corporate lawyer William Dobrovir, one of the authors.

At the same time, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) released a handbook listing 17 ways citizens could help bring about impeachment and citing six specific impeachable offenses.

"In these pages," the ACLU said, "the American people are provided with the means by which to effect the peaceful overthrow of tyrant." The handbook explained that impeachment is only an indictment and not a finding of guilt.

The pamphlet suggested citizens make speeches and write their congressmen as ways to pressure the House to bring impeachment proceedings.

The Dobrovir group argued that a legal principle established in the 1938 federal prosecution of gangster Lucky Luciano held that the head of an organization is responsible for crimes committed by subordinates, thus making Nixon culpable for Watergate - related offenses he said he knew nothing about.

The publications listed the following as some of the offenses Nixon allegedly committed:

—Bribery, by accepting a $2 million pledge from the dairy industry and by offering the federal judge hearing the Pentagon Papers case the job of FBI director.

—Embezzlement, by having his private homes improved at taxpayer expense.

Tax evasion, by taking a major gift deduction (donation of his vice presidental papers to the public), which "had not been timely made and consummated."

—Violation of the First Amendment by approving domestic espionage against dissidents.

—Violation of Congress' warmaking powers by approving the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Karabian feels he's cinch in A.G. race

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Walter Karabian, who parlays elegant food, fine wine and imported cigars into political contributions, said Monday a whopping $650,000 has been pledged to his primary campaign for attorney general.

The balding 35-year-old Democrat has perfected the art of the political fundraising dinner from mashed potatoes and roast chicken to what one supporter calls a "sumptuous evening."

The price tag: $200 per plate (or $2,000 a table) at the posh Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills.

And, Karabian confidently predicted the only way he could lose the Democratic nomination in June is to "someone who had more money than I have and would use that money in a big television campaign."

So far, he is the only Democrat to formally announce for the post now held by Republican Evelle J. Younger, who is expected to run for governor.

How does the Monterey Park legislator corral so much money and from whom?

He throws elegant dinners and invites prosperous friends and supporters, many of them college chums from the University of Southern California. Karabian said lobbyists are not invited.

Robert Chick, a Los Angeles insurance executive and Karabian fundraiser, described the candidate's supporters as long-time friends, professionals and businessmen whose virtually only involvement in financing political campaigns has been through Karabian.

"They feel there is a need for them to be involved in community life," said Chick, an aide to former Gov. Edmund G. Brown. "They feel they found in Walter an intelligent, creative and responsible public figure. They are willing to commit themselves."

Karabian said in an interview that $414,000 of his pledges for $650,000 will be raised an extravagant dinner Feb. 9 at the Beverly Hilton. The dinner itself is expected to cost roughly $40,000.

Already, he has grossed $240,000 from previous similar fundraisers. His goal was to net $500,000 for the primary campaign.

Karabian said the $414,000 was pledged to him at a recent private dinner at a fancy Los Angeles restaurant. About 130 friends and supporters were treated to a sumptuous meal, the best wines and imported after-dinner cigars.

Then the participants individually committed themselves to sell tickets or buy tickets at $200 a copy to the Feb. 9 fundraiser. If they were unable to sell the number they had agreed to, they would make up the difference from their own resources.

"It was spectacularly successful," said Chick. "There were 207 tables pledged at $2,000 a table for a sum of $414,000."

Karabian, a lawyer in his fourth term in the Assembly, included in his list of supporters Mike Garrett, running back for the San Diego Chargers professional football team; Southern California bankers Jack Arakelian and John Gabriel; Richard Hernandez, a Los Angeles attorney; Michael Bagdasarian, an insurance executive; and Mark Boyer, a long-time Democratic philanthropist.

Karabian, who favors repeal of criminal penalties for possession and use of marijuana, views himself now as virtually unbeatable in the June primary.

Retired auto, 52, victim of drunk driver

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first car sold by Felix Chevrolet Co. survived 52 years on the streets and highways, only to be done in while standing still, in honored retirement, inside a showroom.

The Chevrolet dealership bought back the car, a 1921 model valued at $10,000, polished it up and exhibited it in the dealership.

That was where it was demolished early Sunday when a speeding auto, allegedly driven by a drunk being pursued by an off-duty policeman, came crashing through the window.

The policeman, Willie Patton, said a car driven by Willie Hoard, 55, smashed into the rear of Patton's personal auto. Patton said he told Hoard to pull around the corner so they could discuss the damage. Instead, he said, Hoard sped off, and he chased him.

Hoard allegedly drove through a red light, crashed into another car, doing minor injury to the driver, ricocheted across the street, over the curb, through the 16-foot high plate glass windows of the Chevrolet dealership, battered several new autos and then smashed into the 1921 model.

Hoard was held on suspicion of felony drunk driving.

UCB joins efforts to save energy

LOS ANGELES — Because of the energy crisis lighted outdoor signs at United California Bank's 254 California offices will be turned off.

This is one of several conservation measures requested by UCB chairman Norman Barker Jr.

Barker estimated the darkened signs will result in an annual savings of three million kilowatt hours of electricity, the equivalent of the normal consumption of 600 homes.

The outdoor decorative lighting for UCB's new 62-story headquarters building in downtown Los Angeles will not be used, Barker said.

He has requested employes of all 254 offices to adjust thermostats downward four degrees, eliminate all decorative lighting and reduce the size of light bulbs inside where possible.

Barker also urged UCB employes to join car pools and use public transportation as much as possible in an effort to conserve energy.

Legislator will press action on daylight saving

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, says he plans to introduce a resolution asking Congress to establish year-round daylight savings time nationwide to help ease the energy crisis.

"Daylight savings to me seems to be the most logical immediate step we can take to help conserve our energy resources without seriously inconveniencing this country's citizens and industries," Wilson said Tuesday.

Wilson authored legislation earlier this year to create an extra hour of evening sunlight during the months of June, July, August and September in California.

Younger unit to probe irregular campaign funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle Younger is forming a special unit to investigate possible future irregularities in campaign finance reporting.

Younger declared Sunday that under a new law which takes effect Jan. 1 his office "has been given primary jurisdiction over many aspects of campaign finance reporting in California."

The law requires more detailed identification of sources of campaign funds. It also requires the names of persons who contribute above $100. Currently the names do not have to be disclosed unless the contribution is over $500.

Schembechler blasts everyone

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Coach Bo Schembechler, feeling his Michigan team suffered a "great wrong" in not being selected to go to the Rose Bowl, wants the authority to determine which team goes placed in the hands of the bowl committee.

He also charged in an emotion-laden speech Monday that Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke "engineered" Ohio State's selection despite being tied 10-10 and outplayed for three quarters by Michigan in their battle of unbeatens last Saturday.

LOCAL - NATIONAL

Sports

"Every bowl (except ours) is scouted," Schembechler said. "A football committee should select the team it wants to play in the Rose Bowl and if the Big Ten doesn't like it, it can dissolve the pact. The Rose Bowl should come out and get whoever they want.

"I want Wayne Duke to come and explain to my team why they aren't good enough to play in the Rose bowl," Schembechler said, his normally controlled voice breaking with emotion.

"I want him to tell Dennis Franklin that in his medical opinion, he cannot play," he said. "I want him to tell Larry Cipa —look him right in the eye —and tell him he's not good enough to quarterback my team in the Rose Bowl."

"I have been in contact with University of Michigan authorities regarding this matter," Duke replied from Chicago, "and will be in further contact with these authorities regarding the overall matter."

The Big Ten commissioner said Schembechler's feeling he "engineered" Ohio State into the Rose Bowl was "totally absurd."

"If he didn't engineer it, he at least influenced it by pointing out Franklin's injury," Schembechler said. "This is the first time he's ever been to a Michigan game that he didn't show up in the locker room. He didn't show up in the other one (Ohio State's), either."

The coach of the Wolverines, more distraught with the decision than he ever has been over the few football games he's lost, reiterated his belief the 6-4 vote's "biggest issue was Franklin. But there were others, petty things—and if not that, ignorance."

'NEED ANY HELP?'

It looks as though Green Bay's Al Matthews is trying to help San Francisco 49er Vic Washington across the goal line during the Monday night NFL game. Washington didn't need Matthews' help as he scored from one yard out in the second quarter. The 49ers went on to win, 20-6.

A few final words about SAL champs

The San Antonio League didn't enjoy one of its finest seasons this year in football, but for the two teams which won the league championship and went on to the CIF playoffs, it was a special year.

Especially in Chino.

The Cowboys, who were considered the doormat of the SAL for years, just may have turned everything around. Chino entered the post-season playoffs for the first time since the late 1950's last weekend. And even though the SAL co-champs lost to Villa Park, 27-8, the season was more than just a successful one.

"Going from last to first place in one year is a hell of an accomplishment," commented Chino coach Jim Rawls in wrapping up the season for the Cowboys. "It was a great season."

Rawls was comparing this year's Cowboys to last year's Chino team, which finished in last place in the SAL with a lowly and unimpressive 2-7 record.

Chino finished this year with a 6-4 mark after tying for the league title with a 5-2 slate.

"We indoctrinated a whole new offense and a whole new defense this year," Rawls added. "Our offense was coming around late in the season, and we even gained 249 yards against Villa Park — the most we've had all season." The Cowboys were averaging 222 yards per game in total offense, and they had their biggest offensive game against the Orange County's toughest defense.

"We were really scared in that game," explained the second-year head coach, "it being the first time we've been in the playoffs in a long time. We should have more people out for the team next year because of this season. It's hard to compete against a team which has 80 players when you only have about 32."

Rawls expressed optimism in Chino's future football fortunes, figuring the Cowboys will be contenders from here on out.

"I think this is the start," warned Rawls. "I told the Villa Park coach 'good luck and see you later — we'll be back.'"

Pomona coach Mike Clifton had mixed emotions about the Red Devils 1973 campaign.

"I was a little disappointed with our 5-5 record, but obviously we were excited about winning a share of the league championship," he said. "It bothers me that we won the championship with that record when we could have easily finished the year with an 8-2 record. We lost one game by one point, one by two points and one by three points.

But the second year Red Devil head coach was pleased with the way his team performed after injuries looked as though they were going to bump Pomona out of contention for any kind of title.

"We had to change our offense twice this year," he pointed. "First we lost our end Jim McCain and had to switch to a little stronger running game. Then we lost Raymond Butler and had to revert back to a passing game. Considering everything that happened to us this year, I think we did a good job."

Clifton sees a change in the old Pomona tradition in the next few years, if not for the remainder of Pomona's history in the SAL. But with junior highs moving the ninth graders up the high schools next year, it may help the Red Devil cause.

"Pomona has been known in the past to have big linemen," noted Clifton. "But now it looks as though we're not going to have very many. We're going to get the ninth graders and that will help the program, but we'll still be short of big linemen. We might have to come up with a Steve Taylor year after year."

Impressive or not, the San Antonio League record books for 1973 will show Chino and Pomona on top — and that's what counts.

Matthews top N. L. rookie in big margin

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Matthews isn't exactly a household name yet but the San Francisco Giants think he has the potential to be one some day.

Matthews, who was worried about just making the club in spring training, achieved the first pinnacle on his way to widespread recognition by the fans Monday when he was named the National League's rookie-of-the-year award by a landslide margin.

Despite an outstanding season which included a .300 average and 17 stolen bases, Matthews didn't capture that much attention this season because Bobby Bonds had such a super season for the Giants and most of the publicity the club received was focused on him.

But Matthews won the left field spot to form with centerfielder Garry Maddox and rightfielder Bonds what the Giants think is the fastest outfield in the majors.

In the balloting of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Matthews received 11 votes to 3 1-2 for Montreal pitcher Steve Rogers. The 24 writers—two in each league city—were allowed to vote for only one player but one voter split his ballot with one-half vote each for Rogers and Pittsburgh's Richie Zisk.

Joe Reed is learning fast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Reed may have come of age but the jury is still out on Jerry Tagge.

The two young quarterbacks hooked up in Monday night's nationally televised NFL game and when it was all over, Reed and the San Francisco 49ers had a 20-6 victory over Tagge and the Green Bay Packers.

Reed, starting his third straight game at quarterback, completed only five of 16 passes for 44 yards. On the surface, that looks like a very mediocre performance, but it was far from that.

San Francisco coach Dick Nolan let Reed call his own game and that's where the second-year man, who started the 1973 season on the taxi squad, really shined, leading the 49ers to a 10-6 edge into the fourth quarter before bowing out for Steve Spurrier because of a groin muscle pull.

"I was really pleased with Reed's effort," said Nolan. 'He called a good game and, had he not been hurt, I don't know if I would have replaced him with Spurier."

Reed, who played his collegiate ball at Mississippi State, seemed pleased, too, with play calling against the Packers and was appreciative Nolan let him.

"The coach went along with me," he said, "and I think I built a lot of confidence out of that. We didn't go into the game with any definite plans other than to see if we could execute better than we had been doing."

That the 49ers did, putting together their best running game of the year behind Vic Washington and Ken Willard while snapping a four-game losing streak. However, it was only their fourth victory against seven losses and hardly is cause for celebration.

Yet, a victory is a victory and when you accomplish it before a national television audience, it means something to the individuals involved.

"I really enjoyed this game," said Washington, who rushed for 94 yards and scored San Francisco's first touchdown on a one-yard smash. "We finally put it together. The blocking was there, the holes were there. I just hope we can keep it up because it will make for a lot nicer winter."

Spurrier threw 20 yards to Ted Kwalick for San Francisco's other touchdown and Bruce Gossett made it 12 field goals in a row without a miss on boots of 25 and 22 yards.

Green Bay got its only points on field goals of 35 and 15 yards by Chester Marcol.

"We played a very tough football game," said Packer coach Dan Devine. "It was about as tough as we can stand in there. We played an inspired game, except for not winning."

Two pass interceptions by Dave Wilcox on Tagge, an interference penalty on Al Matthews and a personal foul on Jim Hill figured in 17 of San Francisco's points, and that's what upset Devine, whose club now stands 3-6-2.

'Those penalties and interceptions hurt—you're damn right they do," said Devine. "I don't even want to talk about them. They make me sick to my stomach."

Tagge, who completed 10 of 18 passes for 107 yards before being relieved by Jim Del Gaizo in the fourth quarter, said he thought he played well, except for the two interceptions by Wilcox.

"I didn't even see him (Wilcox) on the first one," said the second-year man from Nebraska, "and on the second, he made a helluva play. I tried to throw it over him. It's frustrating when you think you gave all you have and it isn't enough."

Where the 49ers really won the game was up front on defense. They held hardrunning John Brockington and MacArthur Lane to 19 yards, and that made the difference.

Wooden, Boyd agree

Pac-8 cagers much improved

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Pacific -8 Conference will be vastly improved this year according to coaches John Wooden of UCLA and Bob Boyd of USC.

Both coaches named their starting lineups for this week's openers for the benefit of writers at the first of the weekly basketball writers luncheons.

The defending national champion Bruins play Arkansas Friday night and Maryland (fourth-ranked in pre-season polls) Saturday night.

The Trojans, who wound up second in the conference and played in the National Invitational Tournament in New York, will wait until Saturday when they host Arizona.

Wooden told writers he will start Bill Walton (6-11) at center, Keith Wilkes (6-6) and Dave Meyers (6-8) at forward, Tommy Curtis (5-11) at the "point," and either Greg Lee (6-4) or Pete Trgovich (6-5) at the "wing."

The veteran UCLA coach is high on two of his freshman, Jimmy Spillane of Palos Verdes and the highly publicized Richard Washington.

"Jimmy is small (5-10½ — 150 pounds), quciker than most and can jump and shoot," Wooden commented. "I think people probably expected Richard, because of all the publicity, to be better than he is. But he is going to be a fine player. He's very agile for a big man. He has to learn to go to the boards more aggressively defensively and he has the talent to do it. Offensively, he's good individually now, but has to learn team offense."

One thing that had been a matter of contention was settled. Washington, who was widely publicized to be a seven-footer and then said to be somewhat shorter than that, is 6-9. He was measured along with all the other players for the 1973-74 roster and is listed as 6-9.

The "Wizard of Westwood" also called attention to this year's schedule which calls for second-ranked North Carolina St. (at St. Louis, Dec. 15) and Notre Dame twice, plus San Francisco in the Bruin Classic Dec. 28 and 29.

Boyd, who has everybody back from last year's 18-10 squad, said his team had held the best practice he'd ever seen at USC.

"Our playerss are much more mature than last year and I think we can win more than the 18 games we won last year," Boyd said.

The Trojan coach said he would start Bob Trowbridge (6-8) at forward either Clint Chapman (6-9) or John Lambert (6-10) along with Mike Westra (6-10) in the high-low post offense.

The guards will be Dan Andersen and Gus Williams. Each is 6-2.

"Arizona will be starting three sophomores and two freshmen," Boyd said. "But it will be as tough an opener as anybody could want. "The Wildcats were 16-10 last year.

Qutoting the coaches:

BOB MILLER, CSLA — "Raymond Lewis was the top newcomer in the Philadelphia 76ers' rookie camp last spring. He had signed a contract without using an agent but consulted a lawyer afterward and discovered clauses in the pact made it extremely difficult for Lewis to earn all the money it called for.

"Raymond went to camp this fall and wanted to re-negotiate his contract, but the new general manager refused. I advised Raymond to go ahead and play this year in order to get some experience and remain active, but he didn't see it that way. The amount of money he signed for is more than I will earn in my entire lifetime, but Raymond doesn't think it's enough. Right now he's at home in Compton and very unhappy.

"Darcy Bailey (Chaffey College) will see lots of action this year."

DANA PADGETT, LOYOLA ASSISTANT — "We play UC Irvine Friday night in the Pomona Host Lions Classic at Cal Poly. We have four returning starters, but none of them is a center. We've moved 6-6 forward Brad Dean to center. Coach Dave Benaderet has a 103 degree temperature and the flu and could not be here today."

LUTE OLSON, LONG BEACH ST. — "Clifford Pondexter has been a revelation and will start Saturday against Puget Sound. He could be the best big man ever recruited here. We'll have a powerful front line. The lightest is Clifton's brother Roscoe at 230. Clifton weighs 235 and Leonard Gray 245."

Sherman added to Rams roster

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams added veteran wide receiver Rod Sherman to their roster Monday and put Joe Sweet, another wide receiver, on the injured list because of a pulled hamstring.

Sherman, 28, a former University of Southern California standout, was cut by the Minnesota Vikings before the season started and has not played this year.

In six pro seasons, the 6-foot, 190-pounder has caught 104 passes for 1,568 yards and five touchdowns, including 38 passes for 661 yards and three TDs for Denver last year. He spent four years with the Oakland Raiders.

Minnesota acquired Sherman from the Broncos for wide receiver Gene Washington.

The Rams, who lead the NFC West by one game over Atlanta with a 9-3 record, are in Chicago next Sunday and then close out their regular season home schedule at home against the New York Giants and Cleveland.

Poly's Anderson stepping down

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Cal Poly football coach Roy Anderson has decided he has had enough.

Anderson, who has been battling for five years to build Poly's football fortunes, is through fighting for help from the university's administration to compete on an equal basis in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

The Poly mentor, who built the Broncos into respectability, has decided to retire after five years at the university. He informed his football team on his decision shortly before Saturday's 35-29 win over USIU in the season finale and made the public announcement Monday.

"Let's just say I am retiring," Anderson said. "I have no definite plans at this moment but I hope to travel some."

Anderson is recommending his top assistant, Marv Weetman, to take his place. Weetman, a Cal Poly alumnus, returned to the university last fall after serving on Jim Owens' staff at Washington.

The Broncos just completed a 4-6-1 season. Under Anderson, Poly was 21-30-1.

When he accepted the Poly job in 1969 after serving on the UC Santa Barbara staff, Anderson inherited an 0-10 team. His first Bronco squad was 2-8 followed by 5-5, 6-5, 4-6 and 4-6-1 campaigns. The 6-5 mark in 1971 was the university's first winning season since 1962.

However, Anderson's teams were only 4-15 against CCAA opposition as he maintained his squads were not able to compete on an equal financial basis with the likes of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Cal State Fullerton, Cal State Northridge, and UC Riverside.

"I hope we made progress during my five years," Anderson said. "I hope I am leaving the situation in better shape than when I found it. I hope the program has improved to some degree. But it is obvious there are some things I had hoped would happen to improve some more."

ROY ANDERSON
. . . is retiring

Asked why he has decided to retire, Anderson answered, "I'm tired. I feel it's time for someone else to take over."

A retired officer in the Air Force, Anderson coached at Roswell High in his native New Mexico, The Citadel, Air Force Academy and Santa Babbara before coming to Poly.

After an outstanding career as a quarterback at the University of New Mixico, Anderson played a year with the Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League.

Anderson was able to make Cal Poly respectable but he found it impossible to build into a genuine championship contender in the rugged CCAA because of the lack of funds for scholarships and recruiting.

Black back to battle MSAC cagers tonight

Caldwell Black, a former assistant basketball coach at Cal Poly University, returns to the valley tonight as head coach of L.A. Southwest College.

Black's team 1-0 tangles with coach Gene Victor's Mt. San Antonio College Mounties in a 7:30 p.m. game at MSAC.

MSAC is 1-2 with a lone victory over the Alumni, 80-75, and back-to-back losses last weekend to Glendale, 75-53, and Citrus, 83-74. Southwest beat El Camino, 78-77.

In one other game tonight, Chaffey College hosts East Los Angeles. The Panthers will be looking for their second victory after splitting season opening decisions with Pasadena and Moorpark. Chaffey beat Pasadena, 73-61, Friday, and fell to Moorpark, 79-78 Saturday.

The Panthers complete the week by hosting Mesa, Ariz. Thursday and Phoenix, Ariz. Friday night. MSAC travels to the central part of the state this weekend for games at Reedley Friday, and Fresno Saturday.

Citrus College (1-1) returns to action Thursday, opening the first round of the Don Edwards Memorial Tournament against Barstow at 9 p.m. Other first round pairings have Cypress meeting Pasadena at 3 p.m., Cerritos facing East L.A. at 7 p.m. and Santa Monica meeting North Peralta of Oakland at 5 p.m.

Valley teams place eight on All-SCIAC

CLAREMONT — Larry Cenotto and Biff Sherman of Pomona-Pitzer lead a group of eight local players named to the All-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) team selected by the coaches.

Cenotto led the conference quarterbacks in passing all season long. His favorite target was Sherman, the tight end who returned to football this year after concentrating on baseball in 1972. Sherman was the league's top receiver.

Offensive guard Eric Friedman of the Sagehens also made the first team as Pomona-Pitzer and La Verne each placed three players and Claremont-Mudd two.

Running backs Mike Graber of the Stags and Curtis Frick of the Leopards combined with George Mallory of Occidental in the offensive backfield.

Middle guard Jeff Button and back Casey O'Gorman of the Leos and end Sam Reece of the Stags were named to the defensive team.

All of the La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer contingent will return next year while Claremont-Mudd will lose both Graber and Reece through graduation.

It marked the third straight year Reece has been honored. Graber was a first-team selection in 1971 and made second-team last year.

MSAC's Steve Myer voted South Coast's top player

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College quarterback Steve Myer was a unanimous choice as Player of the Year and wide receiver John McIntyre was a first team selection to the All-South Coast Conference football team chosen this week by conference coaches.

Myer ended a two-year career at MSAC by leading the South Coast in passing by completing 52 per cent of his passes for 1,399 yards and 15 touchdowns.

McIntyre, a sophomore who prepped at Walnut High, was Myer's main TD target, catching 10 scoring strikes and 33 passes altogether for more than 500 yards. He ranked No. 2 in the conference in receptions behind teammate Gil Stewart who was a second team selection at wide receiver. Stewart caught 37 passes for more than 400 yards with no touchdowns.

Two other Mounties — defensive tackle Rick Gohl and defensive back-place kicker Tom MacKenzie — were voted to the first team defensive unit. Sophomore defensive end Damon Petta and freshmen defensive back Larry Burrell were second team choices, giving MSAC seven selections altogether.

STEVE MYER
... Player of Year

Tailback Teddy Farmer, who led the conference in rushing with 704 yards and a 5.1 average for the season, was snubbed in the balloting for a first or second team berth at running back.

Myer and MacKenzie were All-South Coast selections a year ago.

Myer's two-year statistics rank him as the most productive passer in MSAC history. He completed 308 passes in 567 attempts for 3,643 yards and 29 touchdowns.

As a defensive back and place-kicker, MacKenzie intercepted eight passes, recovered eight fumbles and was in on more than 160 tackles in two years. As a kicker he was good on 18 field goals and 39 conversions for 93 points.

THE CALIFORNIA BASEBALL League will alter its 1974 schedule to effect a reduction of approximately 12 per cent in the amount of electricity used for its night games, league president Eddie Mulligan announced Monday.

The tournament will run from Wednesday to Saturday, July 3-6, to give golfers an extra day of travel to prepare for the British Open the next week.

FRANK MALONEY, newly-appointed Syracuse football coach, said he will take the 1974 Orangemen to a bowl game, despite this season's dismal 2-9 record.

Maloney, whose appointment had been a poorly kept secret for three weeks, was formally named head coach Monday and told newsmen that SU football was "a sleeping giant" and not in store for a rebuilding period.

EDDIE CROWDER, the winningest coach in Colorado football history, said Monday he was going to spend the next few days in seclusion pondering his future.

Drake receives MVP award at Bonita football banquet

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Quarterback Harold Drake, who directed the potent Bonita High offense to a 6-3 season record, was named as Most Valuable Player on the 1973 Bearcat football squad Monday night in the schooi's awards banquet held at Griswold's Pavilion.

Drake was cited by Coach Pete Lopez for his fine play and the rapid manner in which he learned the Bearcats' tricky "Houston Veer" offense. Drake helped make that offense into one of the most effective running attacks in the Hacienda League.

Guest speakers at the banquet were star running backs Rod McNeill and Allen Carter of the Rose Bowl-bound Southern California Trojans. Carter, a former great running back at Bonita, and McNeill related the elation they both felt after their big win over rival UCLA.

Both men expressed hope for a career in pro ball, and Carter mentioned he was looking for a big year in 1974, when he will be a senior.

Asked about playing Ohio State once again in the Rose Bowl, Carter replied, "I would just as soon we were playing Michigan. Ohio State has something on us from last year (referring to the Trojans' big 42-17 win last New Year's) and should really be up for the game."

Neither man was very happy about the triple-platooning that Coach John McKay has gone to at their tailback spot, with Anthony Davis alternating playing time with them. "It's a tough situation for Coach McKay," explained McNeill, "since all three of us feel that we would be full-time starters on any other college team in the country."

Other awards for the Bearcat varsity featured sophomore fullback Brad Frick receiving Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Frick wound up the season with 200-plus yard rushing effort against Sierra Vista to finish 1973 with over 1,000 yards on the ground.

Steve Rodriguez was honored as the Defensive Player of the Year, while Richard Ortega received the Coaches Award and Buster Wilson was named as the Most Inspirational Bearcat.

Offensive lineman Carl Davis received a trophy for his general excellence on offense, while Rick Russi received a similar award for his defensive play.

Larry Namimatsu, a senior lineman, received the Leadership Award, and Bob Rees, also a senior, was presented the Booster Academic Excellence Award. Rees and Russi, both injured during the course of the season, were given special Booster Club awards.

Coach Lopez in his awards address stressed the teamwork and togetherness his squad showed throughout the year and pointed out that many Bonita standouts, Drake and Frick among them, will be returning to grid action next season.

Mike Green, a sophomore, was lauded as the Most Valuable Performer on the Bonita Cross-Country squad, while Bruce Hines was named as the MVP on the junior varsity football team.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prior to 1922 the National Football League was known as the American Professional Football Association.

New Mexico coach about to be fired

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — University of New Mexico president Ferrell Heady seemed nearly certain Monday that head football coach Rudy Feldman would be fired, but said a final decision had not been made.

Feldman's Lobos wound up a 4-7 season last weekend by defeating Colorado State, 30-13, but it has been rumored for weeks that Feldman was on his way out. There have been several reports that Feldman has already been booted, but Heady denied them.

Heady said he had recommendations to fire Feldman from the outgoing athletic director, Pete McDavid, and the new director, Lavon McDonald. He said there had been a similar recommendation from the University Athletic Council.

"I would prefer to follow the joint recommendation of the incoming and outgoing athletic directors and the athletic council and have indicated this to Coach Feldman," Heady said.

The president said he anticipated a final decision will be reached this week.

Viruet KOs Oscar Piton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adolfo Viruet of Puerto Rico handed Oscar Piton of Argentina the first defeat of his professional boxing career Monday night when he scored a third-round knockout in the feature bout at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

Viruet turned southpaw against an apparently overconfident Piton and floored him for a mandatory nine-count in the second round. He swarmed all over Piton in the third round and knocked him out at 2:34.

The victory extended Viruet's pro record to 14 straight victories while Piton's mark became 13-1-3. Viruet weighed 140 1-4 and Piton 140.

In an eight-round preliminary, Eddie Piton, Oscar's brother, outpointed Cruz Ramos of Puerto Rico. Eddie weighed 140 and Ramos 139.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Rigid discipline

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband grew up in poverty and his father was a rigid disciplinarian. Apparently, it wasn't at all unusual for him to be beaten and to go to bed without dinner. Now, he treats our two children in the same way even though they are both old enough to resent it. He disciplines them in front of each other because he feels this will teach the one who is not guilty a lesson as well as shame the guilty one. They are forced to strip up to the waist and then he beats them with a strap. I prefer not to watch because I don't think it's right, but he won't let me leave the room.

He believes this will make them grow up to be good, obedient, hardworking citizens. My husband is more educated than I so I don't like to argue with him about this, but I see our family being split and the children growing to hate and distrust him. I too want them to be good children and good adults but there must be some other less painful way. I don't consider myself bad and I wasn't brought up in that way.—J.M.

Dear J. M.: Cruelty, such as you describe is, unfortunately, passed on from one generation to another. The abusive parent usually was abused as a child.

Good parents try to teach their children that wrongs are not solved or erased by further wrongs or by physical violence. Adults and children are healthier if they learn to express their disapproval in words. Then the child knows not only that his behavior was displeasing but why it was displeasing to his parents. The child learns to respect his parents because he sees that they are controlled and use their brain rather than resorting to physical punishment. Discipline is something the child learns from the parents. Parents administer discipline not by being angry, but by living in an organized, non-violent fashion. The child then learns to diiscipline himself.

One good way to discipline a child is to withhold some privilege, such as an allowance, a certain movie, a particular TV show, or even outdoor play for one afternoon. The most important thing is that the child knows he is still loved even though he has committed some wrong. He must know why it was wrong and the reason should not be based simply on parental authority — the old "it's wrong-because-I-said-it's-wrong" reasoning. This kind of approach fails to prepare the child to make choices as an adult and leaves him obeying orders blindly without ever thinking or learning for himself. The intelligent child is bound to resent this type of approach. If the parent persists in demanding blind obedience, the child will grow to hate him.

There is still another reason your husband's approach is injurious and this is sexual. His kind of behavior often leads to sexual perversions. The child may begin to associate sexual feelings with being beaten or whipped or with watching someone else being physically abused.

It's quite possible your husband has mixed emotions when he is punishing your children and his confused feelings may result from the childhood abuse he suffered.

To protect your children's emotional, mental and perhaps even physical health, it's important for you to put a stop to this treatment immediately.

Try to talk with your husband first and if you are not successful, then seek guidance from the outside.

'Lucia di Lammermoor'

West End to do Donizetta opera

ONTARIO — The West End Opera company will present Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, at 8 p.m. Saturday. James K. Guthrie will conduct.

The opera will be staged in a dress rehearsal for young music lovers in the auditorium at 7 p.m. Friday.

Tickets can be purchased at the Spring box office from 7 to 9 p.m. through Saturday and at Mutural ticket agencies.

Playing the title role is Ann Greene, who was Gilda in last season's "Rigoletto." The coloratura soprano has toured the United States and Europe with the Gregg Smith Singers, recorded for Columbia Records, and appeared in Carnegie Hall, Hollywood Bowl and the Los Angeles Music Center.

The role of Edgardo will be sung by Val Stuart, voice instructor at Scripps College. Stuart has been a guest artist with the Roger Wagner Chorale and won Metropolitan Opera and San Francisco Opera competitions. The tenor has toured the United States, Europe, South America and the Orient and Boston Comic Opera.

Hagop Topouzian (Enrico Ashton) has been acclaimed as Turkey's foremost tenor. His range enables him to take leading tenor and baritone roles. He has more than 20 operatic parts in his repertoire, including four he has done for the West End Opera Company — "Il Tovatore," "Rigoletto," "Carmen" and "La Traviata."

Other leading roles are sung by Stephen Sweetland (Raimondo), Octavio Orochena (Lord Arturo), Betty Jackson (Alisa) and Norman Baffrey (Normanno).

General director of "Lucia" is Charles Gonzales, basso-buffo who has appeared in the West End's "Tosca" and "La Boheme." He also staged "Madame Butterfly," Rigoletto" and "Carmen" for the company. Gonzales has sung with the Metropolitan Opera and Fort Worth (Tex.) Opera. He hosts a children's television show, "Domingo," on Channel 7 Sunday mornings.

Movie on stealing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Twentieth Century-Fox will produce "How to Beat the High Cost of Living by Stealing," a comedy about three suburban housewives in New York who rob a shopping center of $750,000.

ALTA LOMA — Folklorist-storyteller Richard Chase of Claremont will speak on "The Living Usage of the Cultural Heritage of the English Speaking Peoples" in the Forum Building of Chaffey College at 10 a.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

Chase has made a career of preserving the homespun stories, ballads, games and dances of the Southern Appalachian Mountains. He has kept the legacy alive through talks, musical recitals, recordings and published works such as "The Jack Tales" and "The Grandfather Tales."

Coffee and cale will be served at the Forum at 9:30 a.m. Reservations can be made by calling 987-1737, Ext. 254.

Separate parakeet and cat for safety

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Petie, our parakeet, has been giving good natured old George, our cat, a bad time for two years now. But "good old George" almost had the last word Saturday. George caught up with Petie just as he was leaving and, lucky, Petie left. But he left behind his tail feathers—all but one of them. Since then, I have kept Petie in his cage for safe keeping. The question is: If I let him out, can he fly without tail feathers? Or is he earth-bound until he grows in new ones?—D.C.

Dear D.C.: A paucity of posterior plumage wouldn't necessarily deprive Petie of flight. It does mean, though, that his wings will have to work harder to hold him up and they have to do all of the balancing, braking, and steering without any tail and assistance. Since Petie almost lost his flight gear and everything else to George when all his equipment was in working order, he will be an almost sitting duck, so to speak, if he and George have another nonverbal encounter. Actually, Petie's posterior, even with feathers, and the rest of his anatomy, will be secure from George only if you take pains to keep them separated at all times.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been told that when I get my new puppy I will be able to have him vaccinated for worms at the same time he is getting vaccinated for everything else. My last puppy almost died of hookworms so this scunds great to me. Is this vaccine completely safe?—L.J.

Dear L.J.: Happily, hookworms have had it when dogs are immunized with a newly developed hookworm vaccine. (The vaccine used contains irradiated infective hookworm larvae.) These stimulate strong body resistance against normal larvae. Unhappily, these treated larvae, when introduced into a puppy already heavily hookworm parasitized, can cause more problems. It is essential to be sure the puppy isn't already heavily infected with hookworm. If he is, worming is necessary before the hookworm vaccine is given. Finally, immunization of dogs against worms is a technology still in its infancy. The hookworm vaccine will undoubtedly be further perfected. Vaccines against other types of worms have yet to be developed.

Brother slain, second wounded

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—One another seriously wounded Sunday as they and a third brother fought with three other men around the corner from the Hollenbeck police station.

Jesus Linares, 28, was dead at the scene, and his brother, Manuel, 26, was reported in serious condition at County-USC Medical Center with a bullet wound in the back.

Jesus and another brother, Ruben, 27, had come to the aid of Manuel, who was fighting with the other men, who fled after shooting Jesus three times and Manuel once.

Kidnap suspect shoots himself, then surrenders

VICTORVILLE (UPI) — A kidnaping suspect shot himself in the head and surrendered to police surrounding his home Saturday after allegedly wounding one of his two victims in the neck, authorities said.

Robert A. Christensen, 22, was taken to Loma Linda Community Hospital in critical condition.

His alleged victims were Susan McCall, 20, and Holly Nollner, 19.

Miss McCall was in fair condition at San Bernardino Community Hospital with a gunshot wound and lacerations. Miss Nollner was in good condition at Victor Valley Hospital with minor injuries.

The women escaped from Christensen after he allegedly abducted them Friday night.

Police said Christensen wounded himself after officers tried to talk him out of his home. They said a single shot was heard and Christensen walked out moments later. He fired several shots at officers when they arrived, police said.

Fly the Chicago Expressway and beat the clock.

We've got the best on-time record in the business.

The last thing you want when you've got appointments or people to meet is to be late.

The Chicago Expressway

And between Los Angeles and Chicago, Continental has been the most consistently on-time airline of them all.

According to the latest published Civil Aeronautics Board figures*, Continental has come out on top in all but two of the 42 months covered in the C.A.B. records (January 1970-June 1973).

Far and away the best performance of all airlines flying that route.

And we haven't slowed down either. For the first six months of 1973 we again finished in first place. Still the most on-time airline.

Courteous, swift and efficient—from the moment you arrive at curbside for your Expressway check-in, all the way through to the speedy way we handle your baggage after you've landed.

So if punctuality means something to you, fly with us on the Chicago Expressway.

You'll be aboard with the biggest clock watchers of all.

*On-time performance means being within 15 minutes of scheduled arrival time on all flights performed between Los Angeles and Chicago. Data based on latest figures from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down. thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Reason and graciousness are your best allies today. Use them to accomplish goals and win favor with others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A favorable change is occurring in a situation that has been seesawing recently. The outcome will please all involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is a good day to kiss and make up if your love life hasn't been all you've hoped for lately. Better understanding is now possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Things can be smoothed over today in an area where you found only rejection and hostility yesterday. It will require compromise from both parties.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take advantage of the present shifting conditions where work or career is concerned. Changes can offer advancement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Information will be coming your way that could either save or make you money. Treat it confidentially while you investigate its reliability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today's events will contribute to your basic security and peace of mind. All that is happening at this time is not readily visible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial picture continues to look bright and encouraging. Add to your peace of mind. However, seek a diversionary mental interest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone will come to you for help. Do what you can without going overboard. They may not be able to repay for a long time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be meeting a person through a friend who will later prove to be a valuable contact. This person has far-reaching influence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Make it a point to do more listening than talking today if involved in a group activity. Something you'll hear of will tie in with your plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) For doors you can't open yourself go directly to the one you know who can. He'll get things moving.

Nov. 28

There will be an improvement in your finances this year. This will give you the chance to do some of the things you've been holding in abeyance.

Two killed in shootout

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A policeman and a man armed with a shotgun died in a streetcorner shootout Friday night, authorities said.

Capt. Thomas H. Smith of the Memphis police homicide bureau said policeman Edward John Hammond Jr., 27, and a man identified as Jerry Arthur Jr., 59, were killed in the gunfire.

"The police department received a call to an armed person at Chelsea and McNeil," Smith said.

"When they arrived on the scene, a male black refused to drop his weapon and turned and shot Patrolman Hammond in the face with a shotgun," Smith said.

The doctor comments

Birth control pills have side effects

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been on birth control pills for a number of years. During the past two years I have begun to have what my doctor calls migraine headaches. He took me off the pills for four months to see if my headaches would stop, and they did. Not one headache the whole time I was off the pill.

I began the pill again because we definitely do not want more children. I am having the headaches on the average of one a week. My question is, do you think my headaches will stop completely if I quit the pill completely?

Also, I noticed that while I was off the pill my sex drive increased sharply. Now that I am back on the pill I've noticed a decrease. Do pills decrease the sex drive in some women? If I thought the change would be a lasting one I would gladly quit them, permanently.

DEAR READER — To begin with, migraine headaches are caused or precipitated by many different factors. There are reports of some women having increased attacks with birth control pills. And, your history certainly suggests that they may be a factor in your case.

I would not like to tell you that you would not have any more headaches if you stopped the pill permanently. There are too many other things in life that can precipitate a headache and so you may still have them. It does sound as if you would not have nearly the problem, though, that you now have.

Some women apparently do experience a decrease in sexual desire when they are on the pill. However, there are a lot of different kinds of pills. They have different ratios of female hormones. This means that one pill might be better suited to one woman than another. Often some of these problems can be solved by using a different pill. It is no longer really right to use the blanket term "pill" as is so often done, because a variety of effects can be obtained from the many types of pills available.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 16 years old and have considered a weight lifting program. However, lately I have been told that having thick muscles may cause a person to slow or stop his growth. Is there anything to this? Also, what is your opnion on weightlifting and other elated isotonic exercies? Is it beneficial to good health?

DEAR READER — If weight training and related exercises are done properly I'm confident they are good for your health. Many a person would develop a healthier body with even a fairly modest program of this type. It isn't necessary to develop exceptionally large muslces to accomplish some good. Such programs to help develop strength. That helps to develop and maintain good posture. And, I suspect that maintaining good posture even into the older years is much more important to health than many people realize. Such programs will not stunt your growth. They may even help it.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York,N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.

Airline lays off 1,000 employes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Airlines today announced it will furlough more than 1,000 employes, including 300 pilots, and cancel 100 daily flights because of the fuel crisis.

Edward E. Carlson, president of the nation's largest airline, said the cancelations had been scheduled even before President Nixon announced Sunday an additional 15 per cent cut in jet fuel delivery for the airlines.

Carlson indicated that the new cutback would result in still more layoffs.

Before United announced its cuts, the airline industry had trimmed more than 500 flights from its domestic schedule on grounds of jet fuel shortages.

Carlson said the additional United flight cutbacks would be effective Jan. 7. But the airline will begin furloughing "immediately 300 pilots and 650 flight attendants," he said.

In addition, Carlson said United would have to cut its manpower levels "in other employment areas," running the total over 1,000.

United has 48,000 employes, including 5,500 pilots and 7,469 stewards and stewardesses.

The new cuts will constitute about 9 per cent of United's flight schedule.

According to United, the Jan. 7 cancelation will conserve about 8 million gallons of jet fuel a month. Earlier this year, United cut back 37 daily flights.

Carlson said the additional 100 daily flights would not affect "basic service" to the public.

Details on the specific cities which would lose flights will be made public within the next two weeks, he said.

United's action was a unilateral move. The Civil Aeronautics Board had given permission to domestic airlines to hold talks on joint flight cutbacks.

Carlson said "no one really understands yet the impact of the present fuel situation on the industry."

The energy crisis "is going to be with us for a long time," he said. But Carlson said he hoped the country would never allow itself to be placed in a position where "other countries can dictate to us."

"Our schedule reduction plans were prepared before President Nixon announced further energy consumption reductions Sunday evening," Carlson said.

The new fuel cutbacks ordered by Nixon will require further study, he said, but indicated they would result in more flight reductions and layoffs.

Carlson revealed the cutbacks in flights and personnel during a breakfast meeting with reporters.

May extend embargo

Arabs using oil power as wedge for demands

By United Press International

Leaders of the Arab world worked today on a tough plan for using the "oil weapon" to regain lost territory and Israel said it would be willing to give up some occupied lands provided its security was guaranteed.

A prominent Egyptian political leader said in Cairo Monday Egypt's army was "fully prepared" to intervene if desert truce talks with Israel fail to break a deadlock over troop withdrawals along the Suez Canal.

Generals from Israel and Egypt held their ninth meeting Monday without any reports of an agreement on troop pullbacks. The two sides scheduled another session for Wednesday.

Arab leaders, including kings, presidents and guerrilla chiefs, met for the second day today at a summit conference in Algiers.

Political sources said the leaders were considering a working paper extending the oil embargo to other countries besides the United States and Holland. They said new nations to be hit might be Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal.

The sources said the paper would also demand Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands seized in the 1967 Middle East war, including parts of Jerusalem.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's call for a Middle East peace conference next month was also expected to figure prominently in the Arab stand.

Israeli Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon told a student group in Tel Aviv Monday the troop pullback issue would be the first item to be settled at the full-scale peace conference if not settled during the desert troop talks.

Allon said, however, Israel would have to return some of the Arab territory it captured in the 1967 war, provided there is a guarantee of Tel Aviv's security.

"Territorial changes will be necessary but the changes should not be exaggerated," Allon said. "The settlement should be such as to prevent a surprise attack."

In Cairo, Dr. Hafez Ghanem, first secretary of the Arab Socialist Union and one of the nation's leading politicians, said the ASU planned a political offensive at home and abroad before the peace conference opens.

He also sounded a warning over the deadlocked truce talks.

"Our armed forces are watching closely Israel's prevarication in implementing cease-fire arrangements and they are fully prepared to intervene if the situation so requires," Ghanem said.

Diplomats: Arabs mean business in Europe ultimatum

ALGIERS (UPI) — Diplomats attending the Arab Leagues summit meeting here are making no bones about their determination to deliver a virtual ultimatum to Western Europe to stop supporting Israel or face an even tougher oil boycott.

In private and public statements Arab leaders make it clear the European community rather than the United States will be the main target for their drive to isolate Israel because of Europe's heavy dependence on Arab oil.

Simultaneously, the Arabs have singled out for criticism the only Communist eastern European nation that still has relations with Israel—Romania, Arab diplomats said.

The maverick Bucharest regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu will be requested by the Arabs to break off diplomatic and economic relations with Israel, conference sources said.

STOCKING UP

Using all the energy he can muster, a New Yorker struggles with six gasoline cans after making purchase Monday. As cuts in gasoline availability loomed, retail stores were reporting that consumers were buying up gasoline cans despite Fire Department warnings on the danger of storing gasoline.

FDA warning

Apricot pit food said to be poisonous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) warned today that two health food products made with parts of the apricot pit contain a poison which could kill both adults and children.

The FDA identified the products as "Aprikern" and "Bee-Seventeen," which it said are being sold in health food stores in at least 30 states as special dietary supplements.

It said that the products contain hydrogen cyanide, a substance which naturally occurs in apricot pits but is dangerous in the concentration in which it exists in the products.

The products are sold in capsule form, the agency said.

The FDA said that the "Aprikern" capsules contain an average of two milligrams of hydrogen cyanide each and its scientists estimate that a child could be poisoned by swallowing five of them. It said 20 capsules could be fatal to an adult.

The agency said it estimated that two packets of "Bee-Seventeen" contain enough of the chemical to cause cyanide poisoning in a small child.

FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander Schmidt said the agency had unsuccessfully tried to get the distributor, General Research Laboratories of Van Nuys, Calif., to voluntarily recall the products. He said the FDA would take "appropriate legal action" to stop the products from moving in interstate commerce.

"Complete withdrawal of these products is hampered by two facts," Schmidt said. "They are sold nationally in thousands of retail outlets and each outlet usually carries small quantities.

"In addition the manufacturer has refused to release distribution reports. For these reasons the FDA must rely in great part on public attention to help get the products out of distribution channels," he said.

The FDA said studies made with rats at the University of Arizona supported its figures on the threat of poisoning.

The agency said consumers and health food stores should destroy any of the two products they have on hand.

Hijackers release 255, heading toward Yemen

BEIRUT (UPI) — Three Arab guerrillas freed 255 captives aboard a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet in Valletta, Malta, then flew to the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Dubai where they refueled and took off again, a Dubai Airport spokesman reported.

The Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) 747 took off from Dubai airport after a three-hour refuelling stopover. The spokesman said the plane left at 6:40 p.m. (9:40 a.m. EST) and headed in a southwesterly direction. KLM said in Amsterdam it was flying to Aden, the capital of Marxist Southern Yemen.

The plane was carrying 10 crewmen and a vice president of KLM who boarded at Valletta as a voluntary hostage. Since the Sunday night hijack the guerrillas have taken it to Damascus, Cyprus, Libya, Malta and Dubai.

Officials at the Libya Tripoli airport said today the takeoff Monday of the fully loaded plane was a "miracle." They said the plane used a runway that had been closed for 25 years and "is certainly unfit for landings and takeoffs." They said it almost collided with construction equipment on takeoff.

Diplomatic sources in Beirut said if the plane flew to Aden the hijackers might be given refuge and a safe conduct.

The Dubai airport official said during their stay at Dubai's modern airport, the hijackers made no demands beyond the one for refuelling. He said nobody left the plane and nobody went aboard. He said airport ground staff put 2,000 gallons of fuel into the plane's tanks.

Many skeptical, bewildered

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Gilbert Fox is almost totally dependent upon the automobile. For his livelihood, he must drive between 700 and 1,000 miles a week. He is a traveling salesman.

"Yes, I worry about the energy crisis," he says. "But I know that I can cut down on my mileage and restrict my driving by better planning and by using the telephone more."

Fox, who resides in Alta Loma, claims he can save 25-30 per cent on fuel by changing his driving habits. Instead of jumping in his car and driving off without knowing for certain if he will meet prospective clients as he's done in the past, he will now rely on the telephone to confirm such meetings.

He feels the President's latest proposals to conserve energy are good, but he admits he is skeptical.

"I think his (Nixon's) ideas are good, IF they're needed," Fox says. "We've been told so many lies in the past, people don't know what to believe today."

Like Fox, other area residents surveyed by the Progress-Bulletin believe measures must be taken to conserve energy, but how to do it and to what extent leaves them uncertain and somewhat bewildered.

One point all agree on, however, is that everyone must make the sacrifice.

Don Moore has been the manager of a shoe store in the Montclair Plaza for the past five years. Energy could be saved and operating expenses trimmed, he believes, by cutting out unnecessary lighting and changing business hours.

"The amount of business hours wasted is ridiculous," Moore says emphatically. He does not feel that the amount of business justifies the long store hours. Too often, he says, employes stand around with nothing to do because there are no shoppers.

Moore proposes closing down at least two days a week, or limiting operations to 50 hours a week. Stores and shops could still do a profitable business, he maintains.

"People always found a way to shop (during limited hours) before, and there's no reason why they can't do it now," he says.

"The lights in these stores could be cut by 30 per cent, and people could still see," Moore adds. "It might even create a better atmosphere, and it would certainly reduce the overhead. Then the savings could be passed on to the consumer."

A nice theory, but even Moore admits it can only work if all shop owners take part.

"Everyone has to participate, otherwise it wouldn't work," Moore says.

A Chino liquor store owner, John LoPorto, has turned off half the lights in his store in an effort to conserve the now precious energy.

He was critical of large shopping centers that don't cut down on Christmas lighting.

"People won't try to conserve energy voluntarily," says a retired Ontario man who did not want to be identified. "They are going to have to make a law."

Very likely that is what is going to happen. The three congressmen who represent districts in the Pomona Valley said Monday that Congress would pass legislation sometime within the next two weeks giving President Nixon the power to mandate energy conserving measures.

"I will give you a flat guarantee that it will happen," Rep. George Brown, D-38th Dist., said.

Brown and his colleagues, Representatives Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist. and Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., agreed that their main concern now is the effect the energy crisis will have on the nation's economy.

"We are facing some very serious economic dislocations," Wiggins said. "It is highly possible that many thousands of Americans may find themselves on unemployment or out of a job.

"It's important that our country embark upon a plan that would make us self-sufficient for energy."

Pettis said he would prefer that conservation measures be left on a voluntary measure, but he isn't sure that "such a serious problem like this can be handled on such a basis."

"This is not a matter of supporting the President," Wiggins added, "it's a matter of supporting the country."

"The effect on our economy will be felt the most next summer, unless there is a change on the part of the major oil-producing countries," Wiggins said.

Home insulation trade boom creating delays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are so concerned about the energy crisis that they've created a boom in the home insulation business, with the result that orders are now running weeks behind schedule, industry officials said today.

The shortage could get even worse, the officials said, if fuel cutbacks — particularly natural gas—force the industry to slow production.

The demand is being created by the government's advice to invest in insulation to cut down heat loss and by the consuming public's efforts to compensate for turned-down thermostats and the possibility of more serious home heating problems as the winter progresses.

About 90 per cent of all residential insulation used in this country is mineral wool— fiberglas or rock wool. Sheldon Caddy, executive director of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, told UPI that manufacturers are now behind in their shipments to such a point that there is a three week delay in delivery. He said the situation is "definitely unusual" and his trade organization is being "flooded" with inquiries.

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, has been circulating an energy-saving tip sheet which says that six inches of added insulation can save the average homeowner 20 per cent on his fuel bill. Even more impressive figures come from George J. Haufler, executive vice president of Certain-Teed Products Corp., a major insulation maker from Valley Forge, Pa., who says that 50 per cent of the existing houses waste one-third of the fuel supplied them because they have no insulation at all.

Haufler told Congress recently the industry should be exempt from any fuel cutback so its furnaces, largely fired by natural gas, could go on burning at the required high temperatures.

U.S. budget falling deeper into the red

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although administration officials are still looking for a balanced budget June 30, 1974 —the end of the fiscal year —the federal budget was $5.5 billion in the red at the end of October.

Treasury Department said Monday the government took in $17.6 billion last month but spent $23.1 billion, leaving a $5.5 billion shortfall for October, the fourth month of the 1974 fiscal year.

Brandt, Pompidou huddle over crisis

PARIS (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and French President Georges Pompidou conferred for the third time in 48 hours today on the oil crisis and European security.

Peace talks looming as key to Arab oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today indicated to leaders of Congress that he does not expect any loosening of the Arab oil embargo until some progress takes place in Arab-Israeli peace talks.

Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reviewed the Middle East peace situation and the energy crisis with 21 senators and House members at a meeting in the White House Cabinet Room that lasted nearly two hours.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters afterwards that the question of the lifting of the embargo by the oil-producing states in the Arab world "depends on the progress of negotiations as the peace conference hopefully gets under way."

Arab and Israel representatives are expected to meet in Geneva Dec. 17-18 under United Nations auspices to start peace negotiation.

Fulbright said that "the period of the embargo" will depend on the progress made in moving toward implementation of a U. N. Security Council Resolution that ended the 1967 war and provided for withdrawal by Israel from conquered Arab lands. It also established a recognition of the need for secure borders by Israel.

Fulbright said that in the long term, the United States has resources of its own which it can develop to meet its energy needs.

But he added, "in the short term, it's very difficult."

The Arkansas Democrat said the bleak outlook applied even more to Europe and Japan which are so more dependent on the Middle East for their fuel supplies.

In other aspects of the energy crisis:

—The President's top energy adviser, John A. Love, testified at a Senate hearing that higher prices —not more tax breaks — should be allowed to induce industry to find sources of energy the nation needs.

—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who previously had indicated gasoline rationing was around the corner, said he now believes "there is a good chance" it will not be necessary.

—The Baltimore Sun said among additional steps being considered to conserve fuels of various types are a four-day school week, reducing weekday hours for gasoline sales, a surtax on consumption of electric power and closing national parks to private cars.

—The Washington Star-News said an additional 10 per cent cutback in gasoline supplies may be imposed in the next few weeks, above the 15 per cent reduction announced by Nixon Sunday.

—United Airlines announced it would lay off more than 1,000 employes, including 300 pilots, and cut out 100 more daily flights because of the fuel crisis. The flight cutbacks are effective Jan. 7, while the furloughs will begin immediately.

—Budget Director Roy L. Ash said the economic damage from the energy crisis "won't be as bad as some fear." He added that unemployment likely will rise "a bit, but not as drastically as predicted" by some.

Nixon renewed his plea Monday for Americans to curb their use of fuels and pledged to resist gasoline rationing.

At the same time, Speaker Carl Albert indicated the House would act within the next two weeks to give the President most of the authority he has requested to implement his energy saving proposals.

FILL UP ON HUMOR

The operator of a service station in downtown Detroit combines his sense of humor with his announcement that he will follow President Nixon's directive of no gas on Sunday.

Sunday gas shutdown beginning to take hold

By United Press International

Businesses and state governments have begun voluntarily complying with President Nixon's plea to conserve energy.

Several major oil companies, including Standard of Ohio (Sohio), Phillips Petroleum Co. and Skelly Oil Co., said they would close their company-owned stations at 9 p.m. Saturdays and all day Sundays.

Sohio Vice President Robert Griffin also asked independent dealers with Sohio franchises to join in the weekend closings.

The New York State Thruway Authority announced it was closing gasoline stations on the 559-mile toll road on Sundays. The thruway itself and restaurants along it will still open Sundays, however.

New York state already had lowered speed limits to 50 miles an hour in response to an earlier plea from Nixon. Authority Chairman R. Burdell Bixby said even though Nixon is asking for a 55 m.p.h. limit for trucks and buses, it will remain at 50 m.p.h. for safety reasons.

Robert Jacobs, executive secretary of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Associations, said his groups support Saturday night and Sunday closings. But he said since stations would lose 15 to 20 per cent of weekly sales, they will fight for reduced rents charged by major oil companies.

Fifteen trucking firms in Michigan said they would voluntarily slow their trucks to 55 m.p.h. to save fuel.

Chicago's Lindbergh Beacon atop Playboy Towers on North Michigan Avenue will be darkened because of the energy crisis. Playboy Enterprises Inc. said it would turn off the world's most powerful aviation beacon to encourage a spirit of cooperation among Chicagoans."

The avenue may not be completely dark. The North Michigan Avenue Association said it will ask for approval to light the traditional small Italian bulbs in trees lining the avenue during the Christmas season. Electricity used in Chicago is produced "almost entirely by coal and atomic power," and not by petroleum, the association noted.

The association also recommended that stores along Michigan Avenue continue lighting first floor windows to aid police patrols after dark.

Most power companies in New England announced cuts of 5 per cent in voltage during peak early evening hours to save as much as 1,300 barrels of fuel oil a day.

The most noticeable effect on the public may be shrinkage of television pictures, a spokesman for Northeast Utilities said.

Suit ruling goes to auto makers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge, ruling against California and 27 other states, has held that auto makers cannot be forced under antitrust laws to clean up car-caused air pollution as a public nuisance.

U.S. District Judge Manuel Real dismissed 34 class action suits against General Motors, American Motors, and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, which includes the major American automakers. The decision, made last week, was revealed Monday. The antitrust laws are meant to preserve "free and unfettered competition—no more and no less," the judge said, and there is no evidence that the problem of auto exhaust pollution is caused by a conspiracy or combination in restraint of trade.

But, the judge said, the auto manufacturers have made a "less than spectacular" effort to fight engine-caused air pollution.

Scuba diving expedition back home after $11,000 Cuba 'repair bill' paid

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — A 16-man scuba diving expedition detained for five days in Cuba flew home today after paying a $11,000 "repair bill" on its chartered plane.

Al Hichew, a retired Air Force colonel who was at the controls of the plane when it made a forced landing Thanksgiving day, said he was "misled" over Cuba by the Havana control tower and ordered to land under threat of two MIG fighters.

"There's no doubt in my mind that they meant business," said the 48-year-old Hichew, a former wing commander of the Strategic Air Command.

The expedition included 14 divers and two crewmen of the chartered twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar. The group landed here in a fog at 5:15 a.m. EST after a brief stopover at West Palm Beach to clear customs and refuel.

They said the Cubans were unaware the chartered jet once belonged to the late Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Hichew, the spokesman for the group, said he and his companions were treated well, fed adequately and were housed in a hotel "they (the Cubans) think is pretty good but what you might call second rate.

"They watched us pretty closely all the time but there were never any armed guards," he said.

He said that after landing at Jose Marti airport they were detained at the airport for seven hours before being taken by bus to the hotel. He said they were always together and in rooms fully screened and fully curtained.

"Several of us, including myself, were interrogated— perhaps interviewed would be a better word—by members of the military," Hichew said. "I got the indication they were representatives of some intelligence outfit."

"We had no contact at all with any high Cuban officials. We were dealing with the working level. Everyone was very friendly, and very gracious, but not responsive," he said.

The Floridians praised the help of Canadian tourists they met at the Deauville Hotel in Havana.

"We got tremendous help from the Canadian tourists," Hichew said. "They freely offered us any money they had when they left and they were the ones who brought out word on our situation."

Bulletproof-glass courtroom site of prison escape case

LOS ANGELES — Jury selection has begun behind bulletproof glass in the trial of a Palo Alto man and woman accused of taking part in the bloody Oct. 6 ambush of Chino prison guards transporting a prisoner.

Monday a motion to transfer the trial from the newly constructed $54,931 security Los Angeles Superior Court room was denied.

The defendants facing charges of murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and rescuing a prisoner are Robert Seabock, 22, and Jean Hobson, 44. The pair are accused of ambushing a state car, shooting two prison guards, one fatally, and rescuing California Institution for Men inmate Ronald Wayne Beaty.

Authorities claim that the ambush and rescue was plotted by a Marxist revolutionary group called the Venceremos, for whom Beaty had written several poems and news articles in the group's newspaper.

In the courtroom bulletproof glass and a heavy steel partition separates the audience from the principals in the case.

Richard Walton, Seabock's lawyer, had asked that the trial be moved from the special courtroom because "it provides a different treatment and atmosphere than that which surrounds any other trial in this county."

Attorney Hugh Manes, representing Mrs. Hobson, joined Walton's request, saying the partition will have a prejudicial effect on jurors.

The security measures were necessary to prevent any possible attempt to free the defendants, officials said.

In addition, the screen was deemed necessary to protect Ronald Wayne Beaty, the convict who was recaptured following the escape and who was expected to testify against the two defendants.

A change of venue was granted earlier from San Bernardino to Los Angeles because of publicity about the killing in the area of the slaying.

Man hit, robbed; 4 'friends' held

MONTCLAIR — Three men and a woman were arrested by police Monday night after they allegedly struck a Montclair man in the neck with a tire iron, looted his home and stole his car.

Booked in the West End Jail this morning on suspicion of armed robbery and auto theft were Elizabeth Ann Cook, 18, of 1930 Palmetto St., Ontario; Timothy Michael Holt, 18, of 4493 Los Serranos Blvd., Chino; Howard Glenn McArron, 18, of 15655 Palo Alto St., Chino; and Wade Green, 18, of 4493 Los Serranos Blvd.

The four were arrested near Ramona Avenue and Riverside Drive by Chino police hearing an all points bulletin radioed by Montclair police searching for the suspects.

Montclair police reported that the four suspects were acquainted with the victim, Andrew Bobick, 38, of 4413 Cambridge Street, and Monday night went to his home, asking to stay overnight. Bobbick let them in and went back to bed, police said.

About 2:10 a.m., police said the suspects crept into Bobick's bedroom struck the sleeping man in the neck with a tire iron and tied him up with a piece of drapery and an electric cord.

Police said the suspects took Bobick's wallet, a color television, stereo set and his car keys, and left the home in the victims car and another car. The suspects were getting gas when they were spotted by Chino police.

Bobick, only slightly injured, managed to free himself and flag down a Montclair police officer in the area to report the robbery.

3rd suspect arrested in L.V. slaying case

LA VERNE — A third suspect in the slaying here Nov. 11 of Jon Balfour Soupcoff was arrested this morning on suspicion of murder.

Richard Rodarte Rodriquez, 24, 16036 Rowland Ave., La Puente, was surrendered by his attorney, Joseph Eischen, West Covina.

Rodriquez joined two others arrested Friday night in connection with the stabbing of Soupcoff. They are Jimmy Singh Jr. and Johnny Scosio Salazar, both 24 and both of the Rowland Avenue address.

Detective D.F. Griggs said there may be additional arrests. He said he planned to present the case to the district attorney's office later today with a request for a compalint against the three men.

Soupcoff, 23, 508 Meadow Lane, Pomona, was stabbed to death during a fight on the center divider in the 1500 block of White Avenue. He was one of 300 to 400 persons who had attended a birthday party at the La Verne Inn, 1520 N. White Ave. The fight followed an incident during the party, police said.

Class tells in slam bid

Play did mean the difference of a lot of IMPS in this first round Swiss team match. Point-count bidding made it easy for both declarers to reach six notrump. The distributions and the wasted jacks in spades and hearts left declarer with no good play for his contract.

The inexpert declarer decided that his only hope would be to find a doubleton king-queen of clubs or a singleton king or queen in the East hand. Then all else he would need would be a 3-3 diamond break. He laid down his ace of clubs at trick two and was down one.

The expert declarer knew of a better play that would work if West held K-10 or Q-10 doubleton in clubs. He led a two club toward dummy at trick two.

West rose with his queen and led a second spade. Now South entered dummy with a heart and led the jack of clubs. It didn't matter whether or not East covered West's ten was going to be pickled and South was sure of three club tricks.

The bad diamond break didn't hurt. He had 12 tricks with just three diamonds coming in.

Boy friend, 18, too old, girl fears

18 AND 13: (Q.) My boy friend is 18 and I am only 13. I do like him but I know this is a big difference in age, and my mom and dad don't approve of him.

I have tried to break it up more than once. Help! — Criticized in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You know what you should do but you haven't done it. Do it now. Break it up. And make it stick.

FLUTE FRED: (Q.) I have been taking flute lessons since I was in the fifth grade. My mother and father bought me a flute then, and I used to love to play it. But now I can't stand it, and I hardly ever practice.

My sister took clarinet and quit when she was my age (14). I told my mother I was bored with my flute and asked her if I could quit. She gave me a flat no. Please help me. — Bored in New York.

(A) You have a great deal of time and work invested in that flute and you should think seriously before you quit it completely. You could ease up in your practice and lessons during the next few years, which are going to be busy, and then perhaps go back to it more seriously later.

But if your mind is made up that you and your flute are finished forever, your mother should not inflict it upon you any longer just for principle's sake.

Pomona moves to control annexation area

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The City Council Monday night unanimously voted in favor of an attempt to extend its annexation potential in unincorporated territory north to the proposed Foothill Freeway to gain control of the freeway's interchange at Garey Avenue.

The action is at wide variance with a "gentleman's agreement" reached in 1966 with neighboring Claremont. This agreement placed the northern boundaries for Pomona's sphere of influence further south in the general vicinity of Briarcroft Road.

In voting for the extension, the council at the same time went along with a recommendation from City Administrator Jerrold Gonce agreeing to accept the decision of the Local Agency Formation Commission without "debate" by either of the two city staffs at a LAFCO hearing Wednesday.

Gonce told the council he and Claremont City Manager Keith Mulrooney "did break bread together" over the matter and that the two administrators had agreed it would be "foolish" for the merits of either side to be debated before LAFCO.

Gonce added that he did not know if the Claremont City Council had agreed to this understanding.

In a written report to the council, Gonce said:

"Since the final responsibility for the establishment of spheres of influence rests with LAFCO and since the citizens of the area under consideration must vote in the affirmative to be annexed to Pomona or Claremont, I believe this matter should be given to LAFCO for action without debate from either city."

The area Pomona is interested in adding to its sphere of influence is west of Williams Avenue, northwest of the Thompson Wash and just north of the proposed freeway route.

The council last week strongly hinted it would try to move its sphere of influence northward, citing, among a number of things, the importance to Pomona of the proposed freeway interchange at Garey, one of the city's primary north-south arterial streets.

The freeway presently stops at La Verne and its proposed extension east through Claremont has drawn strong opposition in that city. But in 1972 when put to a citywide vote, Claremonters decided in favor of the extension by a margin of almost 3 to 2.

Opposition in Claremont was noted by the Pomona council last week.

City Planner Sanford Sorensen, in his written report to the council, said:

"Through a vote of the people, Claremont's official policy is one of supporting the Foothill Freeway. This position weakens some of our arguments which relate directly to Pomona's desire to see the Foothill Freeway completed. However, Pomona's control of the Garey Avenue interchange remains one of our best points."

Another city staff-prepared report on the sphere of influence study states that since its adoption in 1963, the city's Master Plan of Land Use and Circulation had designated the Garey-Freeway interchange "as an essential part of the circulation for Pomona."

The report goes on to say that "Claremont will still control access to the Foothill Freeway by virtue of two other planned interchanges in that city, one at Towne Avenue and another at Padua Avenue.

The report says that Pomona is in a position to provide water, sewage, fire and police services to the area Pomona would like to bring into its fold.

While the area presently is "adequately" served by the Southern California Water Co. and no changes are anticipated, Pomona could provide service "if necessary," the report reads.

Sewer mains already exist in Foothill Boulevard and Garey Avenue, fire services already are provided to the area through mutual aid agreements and there is a branch fire station nearby, the report says.

"Police protection is already provided within the corporate city limits with at least one patrol car assigned to the area on a 24-hour basis."

Additionally, street lighting, street tree trimming, library services and refuse collection would all be provided through one governmental agency "already providing quality services in the present city limits," the report says.

It continues by saying that it would be to the slight advantage of property owners to annex to Pomona. The sphere of influence designation is a preliminary step to annexation proceedings.

"If this area were to be incorporated into Pomona, the tax rate would be $13.8010; annexation to Claremont would raise the rate to $13.8631," the report states.

In a related matter, the council in a separate action unanimously authorized Mayor Ray J. Lepire to join a group of mayors representing an area as far west as Pasadena and as far east as Redlands, in pushing for completion of the freeway.

Upland Councilman Harold A. Bailin, president of the Foothill Freeway Association, appeared before the Pomona Council to ask the city's cooperation "in putting a little pressure on."

"We want this thing moving," said Bailin, adding that 13 to 15 mayors already had agreed "to make a unified show of strength."

Living laboratory is part of department at Cal Poly

POMONA — A "Living laboratory," a concept integrating on-campus professionals and facilities into an academic degree program, is part of the new hotel and restaurant management department at Cal Poly.

The university's Kellogg West conference center and personnel are being utilized to give students the widest possible academic and professional exposure, according to Dr. Donald E. Lundberg, chairman of the hotel and restaurant management department.

Kellogg West has meeting rooms, an auditorium, dining area for 700, and residence facilities for more than 100. The facilities will be used as a laboratory for students taking specialized courses from the center's management personnel.

Lundberg cites the use of a conference facility in this manner as a concept used only in one or two other places. "Few places in the world have such a facility like this to use as part of their academic undergraduate program. We have the complete cooperation of the full staff of Kellogg West."

Lundberg points out that because of the availability of the conference center and personnel, courses seldom offered anywhere are becoming a part of the university's hotel and restaurant management curriculum.

Catering management, a four-unit course dealing with all aspects of catering conferences, will be taught beginning winter quarter by Jack Travis, Kellogg West food and beverage director.

Conference management, a course examining the preparation and hosting of professional conferences, will be taught by Dr. John B. O'Hara, the dean of continuing education and educational services, who is administratively repsonsible for Kellogg West.

Navy awards $11.3 million contract to G. Dynamics

POMONA — A government contract for the engineering development of standard missile systems has been awarded to General Dynamics Pomona in the amount of $11,340,000.

Awarded by the Department of the Navy, the contract is a follow-up contract for the continued development of the Standard active surface-to-surface missile.

The Pomona plant has recently completed flight tests of several Standard active missiles for the Navy. All tests, according to Jack Isabel of General Dynamics, were highly successful and scored direct hits on targets.

The Standard active project is an outgrowth of the first Standard missiles which have been developed at General Dynamics for many years.

Wanted: Nixon under oath

At least one congressman has suggested that Richard Nixon owes the nation not only an explanation about Watergate but an apology.

We have not reached that point, and never will, but the Richard Nixon who has taken to the hustings in a determined effort to save his presidency is quite different from the one who castigated the news media a few weeks earlier — witty, eager to explain, without a trace of arrogance or "toughness." In two words, human and sympathetic.

It is a shameful thing that a president of the United States has to go on nationwide television to tell Americans "I'm not a crook."

Aside from that, however, Mr. Nixon's counteroffensive has been good strategy. He has converted the Watergate crisis into a kind of plebiscite (not accidentally basing it in the Nixon-friendly South) that might just head off impeachment at the pass.

Any significant swing of popular sentiment over to the President in the coming weeks — and what American doesn't root in his heart for the underdog? — will not be ignored by a Congress far from eager to set in motion the ponderous and portentious machinery of impeachment.

But while the President's series of public appearances has been of immense benefit to Richard Nixon, what real benefit has it been to the nation?

A presidential press conference, no matter how free-ranging the questions is simply a forum for the President to say as little or as much as he wants to say. There is no chance to follow up a question to pin down a detail, to confront a contradiction.

As far back as April, the President accepted "responsibility" for Watergate. But he never has, really. He still speaks of "overzealous" subordinates, while continuing to praise his two closest aides as fine public servants. He continues to misrepresent such things as Thomas Jefferson's exercise of executive privilege.

We are still asked to believe that one of the canniest politicians of our time was too trusting or polite or preoccupied to ask his campaign manager about what he had been warned was a cancer eating away at his presidency.

One can only conclude that never in the course of Americans events has a president known so little about so much that was taking place in his administration.

If this be innocence, it is an innocence more dangerous than duplicity.

Of course, if Richard Nixon really wanted to clear up Watergate once and for all, he could, as Barry Goldwater and others have urged, present himself before the Watergate Committee (in secret session, to protect both presidential confidentiality and the rights of Watergate figures who have not yet been indicted or brought to trial).

A statement from the Committee clearing Richard M. Nixon of any involvement in Watergate — especially if he had submitted to interrogation under oath — would accomplish more than a hundred appearances before a thousand newspaper editors.

But Richard M. Nixon won't take the simple steps which could make such a finding a reality. Why?

Historic week

The first week of December is an historic one. During it fall three major anniversaries, two international in importance, one domestic.

December 2 is the 150th anniversary of the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine.

December 7, of course, marks the 37th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

On the strictly home base, December 5th marks the end in 1933 of the calamitous Prohibition amendment.

President Monroe had a noble concept of this nation's hegemony in the Western Hemisphere, but it has been tarnished by the communist takeover of our neighbor Cuba, and infiltration of North and South America.

World War II, with its infernal climax in the unleashing of the atom as a weapon, offered nobility only — but in vast measure — in the sacrifice of those who bore its burden.

"Noble" applies to Prohibition only as the key word of a facile distortion of a perhaps overly generous assessment by Herbert Hoover of the intentions of the 18th Amendment's authors. His "A great social and economic experiment, noble in motive . . ." became "The noble experiment," which it certainly wasn't.

Fuel for thought

"The fuel crisis need not mean genuine suffering for any American," says President Nixon, "but it will require some sacrifice by all Americans."

One sacrifice is fewer scheduled airline flights, which suggests an interesting question:

In which category — suffering or sacrifice — would a cutback in the frequency of flights by Air Force One between the Western White House, the Southern White House and the White House White House fall?

Did Nixon obstruct justice?

WASHINGTON — The Watergate prosecutors believe their best case against President Nixon personally would be for "obstruction of justice." They have evidence that he tried to cover up the burglarizing of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. No decision has been made, however, to bring charges against him.

The President repeatedly has tried to block inquiries into the White House plumbers' operation in the name of national security. Presidential aides have told the prosecutors, in deep confidence, that an investigation of the plumbers might reveal that the Central Intelligence Agency eavesdrops on Kremlin leaders.

This is no secret, however, to our readers. We reported as far back as September 16, 1971, that "the CIA has been able to listen to the kingpins of the Kremlin banter, bicker and backbite among themselves."

We went ahead with the story because the secret transcripts of the Kremlin conversations showed that the Soviet leaders were quite aware the CIA was listening to them. Anything the Kremlin leaders knew, we reasoned, was safe for the American people to be told.

Main excuse

The Kremlin eavesdropping, however, has been the principal excuse that the White House has offered for hushing up the Ellsberg break-in. The burglary was committed by the plumbers, presidential aides told the prosecutors, not to seek a psychological profile of Ellsberg as the public has been told, but to learn the names of Ellsberg's suspected Soviet contacts.

The White House feared Ellsberg had information about the CIA's listening devices in the Kremlin and might tip off his alleged Soviet contacts, claimed the President's people. They had reason to believe Ellsberg had named his Soviet contacts, they said, during his sessions with his psychiatrist.

When Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen discussed the Ellsberg break-in with the President, according to Petersen's account of the conversation, Nixon warned him: "That is a national security matter. You stay out of that. Your mandate is to investigate Watergate."

The new special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, has told senators he doesn't agree with this and will go ahead with an investigation of the plumbers' activities.

Mysterious missions

These include two mysterious missions known only as "Project Odessa" and "Project N-1." White House aides won't even discuss these missions with the prosecutors, although they have promised to let Jaworski see documents and listen to tapes relating to the national security problems.

Some prosecutors suspect that the President has gone to extreme lengths to cover up the plumbers' activities because of his own personal involvement. He not only has admitted that he "approved the creation" of the parapolice plumbers unit but that he "directed" Petersen not to investigate the plumbers' activities.

In the opinion of the prosecutors, this could be construed as obstruction of justice. For subsequent investigations, which were conducted despite the President's wishes, have resulted in criminal indictments.

The prosecutors are also seeking to determine whether the President ordered the former head of the plumbers, Egil Krogh, to obstruct the investigation. Krogh's attorney, Stephen Shulman, has told the court that his client was ordered to lie, if necessary, to conceal the plumbers' operations.

Asked Hoover's help

The White House has acknowledged that Nixon asked the late FBI chief, J. Edgar Hoover, to direct the illegal activities that were later entrusted to the plumbers. Yet the President has insisted that he "at no time authorized the use of illegal means by the special investigations unit."

The President has denied specifically that he had any advance knowledge of the burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Not until last March 17, he said, did he learn about the break-in.

The moment former Watergate prosecutor Earl Silbert learned about the break-in, he immediately informed the court. But the President concealed this crime for more than a month, by his own admission, until then Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst persuaded him on April 25 to disclose it to the court.

Resisted probe

From the beginning, the President has resisted any probe of the plumbers. It was this phase of Archibald Cox's investigation, according to our White House sources, that raised the President's hackles. Now Jaworski is continuing where Cox left off.

The President is upset over Jaworski's attitude but doesn't want to appear to be obstructing another special prosecutor, say our sources.

Jaworski, meanwhile, not only has kept Cox's aggressive young prosecutors but his directed them to go ahead with all their investigations.

To the dismay of the White House, it is beginning to look as if President Nixon may have another Archibald Cox on his hands.

PAUL HARVEY

The clamor of the crowd

If a President can be embarrassed into resigning by the clamor of the crowd, then God help us! Because, thereafter, every elected official must play to the pit. Never will he dare to stand on principle or policy or propriety; never will he dare to do what he believes. Henceforth, elected officials will have to do anything, undo anything, promise anything the mob hollers for.

Confront the clamorers with "What's the President done wrong?" and you get evasive and obtuse answers. Contrary to the historic American tradition of jurisprudence, his accusers construe him to be "guilty until proved innocent"!

Granted, the President has not handled his counterattack in a manner to command public confidence, but part of his indefinite response reflects the vagueness of the accusations.

There were months when he was convinced that this brouhaha would go away, when he could not bring himself to believe that the belaborers would sustain their belaboring.

But they have. Even now some members of Congress are demanding his political scalp. The New York Times, demanding resignation, cited what it considered his crimes to be: the bombing of Laos; impoundment of funds; borrowing from millionaire friends to buy real estate.

Such amorphous indictments are unworthy even of The Times. First, the New York-based media agitated for "impeachment." When it became obvious that there were no grounds for impeachment, the demand was switched to "resignation."

They insisted that the "administrator is so discredited that he is incapable of administering." Horsefeathers! He stopped the bleeding in the Middle East and bandaged the hurts.

With one exception, his votes have been consistently sustained by the Congress on reconsideration.

With all these frightful preoccupations, he is dealing with measurable effectiveness with inflation and the fuel shortage. I'm sure he'd rather be playing chess for foreign chiefs of state, but he has learned the hazard of delegating domestic problems and is tending to them personally and responsibly.

So continuing demands that he "resign" are conspicuously contrived to make political hay at everybody's expense. Again, if a President can be embarrassed out of office, from now on every elected official will have to do, undo or promise anything the mob hollers for.

And the emotional mob may be unreasonable. That's where lynchings come from.

Saving fuel

To conserve energy: 1. Close all stores and shopping centers on Sunday. 2. Turn down the flame under water heaters. And turn down temperature of water. Any water too hot to put your hand in is wasted energy. The flame will activate 50 per cent less and water heaters will last 50 per cent longer. — O.J. Davisson, Pomona.

Realty sign removal

The November 19th edition of your paper has an article "Realty firms tend to support sign-removal proposal". While the persons quoted may be your largest advertisers they are not representative of all Realtors. Red Carpet Realtors are a franchise firm that has been in town less than six months and Mr. Murphy is not the broker for the office. He does not live in Pomona. Century 21 Rose Demetriff also is a franchise firm, and I believe Ms. Demitriff lives in La Verne. Hawkins Realty has its headquarters in Temple City, and the manager Bob Woolsey does not live in Pomona. This firm was a leader if not the first to use permanent type signs with a four-by-four post and bracket to support the sign. Mr. Odom is the president of the Pomona Valley Realtors with his office in Pomona but he lives in La Verne.

Wouldn't it be better to survey Pomona firms and Pomona people when you are writing about proposed Pomona ordinances to affect Pomona people? —Melvin L. Kern, Pomona.

Gossip for today

Sometimes we get to thinking here in the United States that we are the world's chosen people. But before we get too big for our britches, it might be well for us to remember that Mandarin Chinese is still the language spoken by most of the people in the world. — Furthermore, to keep us properly humble, it should also be pointed out that an Australian holds the world's beer-can throwing championship.

However, lest such deficiencies should tend to give us an inferiority complex, I hasten to add that we can always proudly point to the fact that U.S. citizens are the world's first to enjoy the privilege of having their pictures printed on their personal bank checks.

INSIDE REPORT

The missing 18 minutes of tape

By Roland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Before informing U.S. District Chief Judge John J. Sirica that another key 18-minute segment of the presidential tape recordings is gone forever, White House lawyers pleaded with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski—unsuccessfully—to delay breaking the news.

That Jaworski flatly turned down the appeal powerfully reinforces his status as independent prosecutor. But far more important, the fact that the White House actually asked for a delay shows how ominously this latest fiasco looms in the wary eyes of President Nixon's lawyers.

Indeed, the obliterated 18 minutes of conversation between the President and his then chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman, on June 20, 1972, the first working day after the Watergate burglary, may prove Mr. Nixon's most severe problem of all. Both prosecution lawyers and Republican politicians believe his presidency may hang by a thread when Sirica convenes a hearing on the missing 18 minutes.

Last Wednesday, less than 48 hours after Mr. Nixon had assured Republican governors meeting in Memphis he is not aware of "any more bombs," Jaworski's office received a telephone call from the White House. Fred Buzhardt, Mr. Nixon's lawyer handling the Watergate case, requested and received an appointment with Jaworski at his office.

Documents not forthcoming

Not once in all the weeks since the special prosecution force opened shop under the deposed Archibald Cox last spring had Mr. Nixon's attorneys entered its offices (in a downtown commercial office building). Jaworski's lawyers guessed Buzhardt was about to bring them presidential documents, long sought by the prosecutors and long denied by the White House. They were soon proved spectacularly wrong.

Buzhardt, accompanied by White House counsel Leonard Garment, dropped his bomb: 18 minutes were obliterated from the June 20 tape subpoenaed by Cox. He had no explanation for it. But he had a request: would Jaworski please give him a little time—a few days—to get his ducks in a row before shocking the nation once again?

This was the moment of truth for Leon Jaworski, senior member of the Houston establishment as one of the Southwest's richest corporation lawyers. Moderate LBJ democrat Jaworski had already disappointed the White House with his full approval of the tough investigative approaches of liberal Kennedy Democrat Cox. Now, on Thanksgiving eve, the Nixon men were bidding hard for sympathy.

Had Jaworski granted the delay, he would have committed a heinous offense, particularly in the eyes of zealous deputy prosecutors inherited from Cox—would, indeed, have endangered his relationship with them. Instead, without hesitation, Jaworski said no.

Sirica schedules hearings

The news was immediately carried to Sirica's chambers, and the stunned judge promptly scheduled hearings on the missing 18 minutes. Those hearings may become the most severe test yet for President Nixon.

Unlike the non-existent tapes controversy two weeks ago, the White House had no ready explanation for the missing 18 minutes. The six technical experts now operating under the court's auspices will examine the tape, and each person believed to have handled it — in particular Rose Mary Woods, the President's long-time personal secretary — will testify under oath.

That testimony may pose a new challenge for Jaworski. Sirica, though obviously irritated by the White House handling of the subpoenaed tapes, has shown understandable reluctance to initiate action against the President. Rather, he is looking toward the special prosecutor for guidance. Based on his peremptory refusal to grant the White House a delay last Wednesday, Jaworski is apt to move hard if this week's hearings expose White House shenanigans.

Simultaneously, Jaworski faces another challenge. As reported above, when Buzhardt asked for his appointment the prosecutors thought he would produce documents about the White House Plumbers unit, including files on the mysterious M-I and Odessa projects. Those papers had been denied Cox but were promised Jaworski. However, with Jaworski on the job three weeks now, the papers have still not been produced. He must decide soon whether to institute legal action.

Against this backdrop, Mr. Nixon's ballyhooed "Operation Candor" fades into insignificance. He is still dunned by prosecutors for secret documents and, much worse, is forced to explain highly unusual deficiencies in the physical evidence. Depending on what happens in Sirica's court this week, the worst for Mr. Nixon may be yet to come.

Board and teachers begin meet-and-confer sessions

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Representatives of Walnut School District teachers and the school board began "meet-and-confer" sessions Monday night on five proposals presented by the teachers to the board last week.

The suggestions, dealing with salary and scheduling, were discussed in open board session the previous Monday — a "first," according to Supt. David L. Brown, which he regards as a healthy practice. Presentation of proposals so early in the year is also unprecedented in the Walnut district, he acknowledged.

Under the terms of a state law governing district-teacher relations, these proposals must be worked out in meet-and-confer sessions. These talks must be held "in good faith" to allow a fair opportunity for teachers to participate in the process of governing the district, said Brown, while also providing a proper situation to air and resolve grievances.

Trustees questioned closely the impact of the suggestions, especially financial effects. Responding to the questioning, which was mainly preliminary probing prior to in-depth discussion during meet-and-confer sessions, was Charles Sismondo, a Walnut High School teacher who is 1973-74 president of the district Certificated Employes Council (CEC).

Ray McMullen, director of personnel and planning, is the board's negotiations representative. He presented the outline of proposals to the board. McMullen noted that the first proposal, a request for a 2.5 per cent pay increase, is a holdover from last year's salary negotiations.

During the discussion, it was noted that the salary proposal hinged on "clean up" legislation following the passage of Senate Bill 90, which changed broadly school district financing methods. Availability of funds for the proposal is an item for the meet-and-confer sessions, said Sismondo.

McMullen, responding to a query from Trustee Richard A. Falloon, said Walnut is in the upper 25 per cent of other districts used to compare salary schedules. Trustee J. Edwin Nettell drew from Sismondo an estimate of "roughly" a $75,000 cost for the increase.

Two proposals involved summer school programs — one, that teachers in the summer be granted closer salary parity with regular year instructors, and the other, that teachers be guaranteed a full summer's employment if classes are up to minimum size or better after the fourth day of summer session.

Teachers asked that the district determine a daily pay rate based on 176 days of instruction for regular year instructors then set a percentage of that rate for summer teachers. The specific percentage was not determined, but rough figures produced by McMullen and Brown indicated that presently for similar assignments a regular-year teacher is paid $54 daily, while summer school instructors receive $28.50.

Falloon said he thought setting the percentage pay system would cause discrimination against teachers at the upper end of the pay schedules since summer school administrators might seek to employ instructors at a lower pay rating.

However, said Sismondo, a board policy precludes such discrimination by demanding that instructors be employed on the basis of competence and recency in teaching the subject. He also said that teachers feel the present summer pay rate is an "inequity," since classes require the same amount of preparation, and on a day-to-day basis are close to the length and type of instruction offered during the fuller academic year.

Further, said Sismondo, the CEC feels that summer school is "making a profit at the expense of teachers." (Reports issued at the end of the last session indicated summer school concluded with an excess of funds based on average daily attendance payments from the state.)

Brown, in noting the proposal could hike summer school costs to $40,000, remarked that the program does not have that sum in excess. Again, the matter will be pursued in negotiations.

In covering the assignment proposal, McMullen noted that presently summer school attempts to keep as many classes open as possible. Very rarely, he said, are classes dropped once begun, and not at all on the elementary level after three days. If enrollment does fall, he added, normally attempts are made to keep teachers on in some fashion.

And, said Brown, when classes are dropped, there is more money available to fund other parts of the program — such as a pay increase for instructors.

Teachers also asked the board to consider a "commitment" to a lower pupil-teacher ratio. The CEC's rationale for this request, relayed McMullen, is to bring student-teacher figures from 27.5-1 district-wide at this time, to 22-1 so "very large" classes will be nearly eliminated.

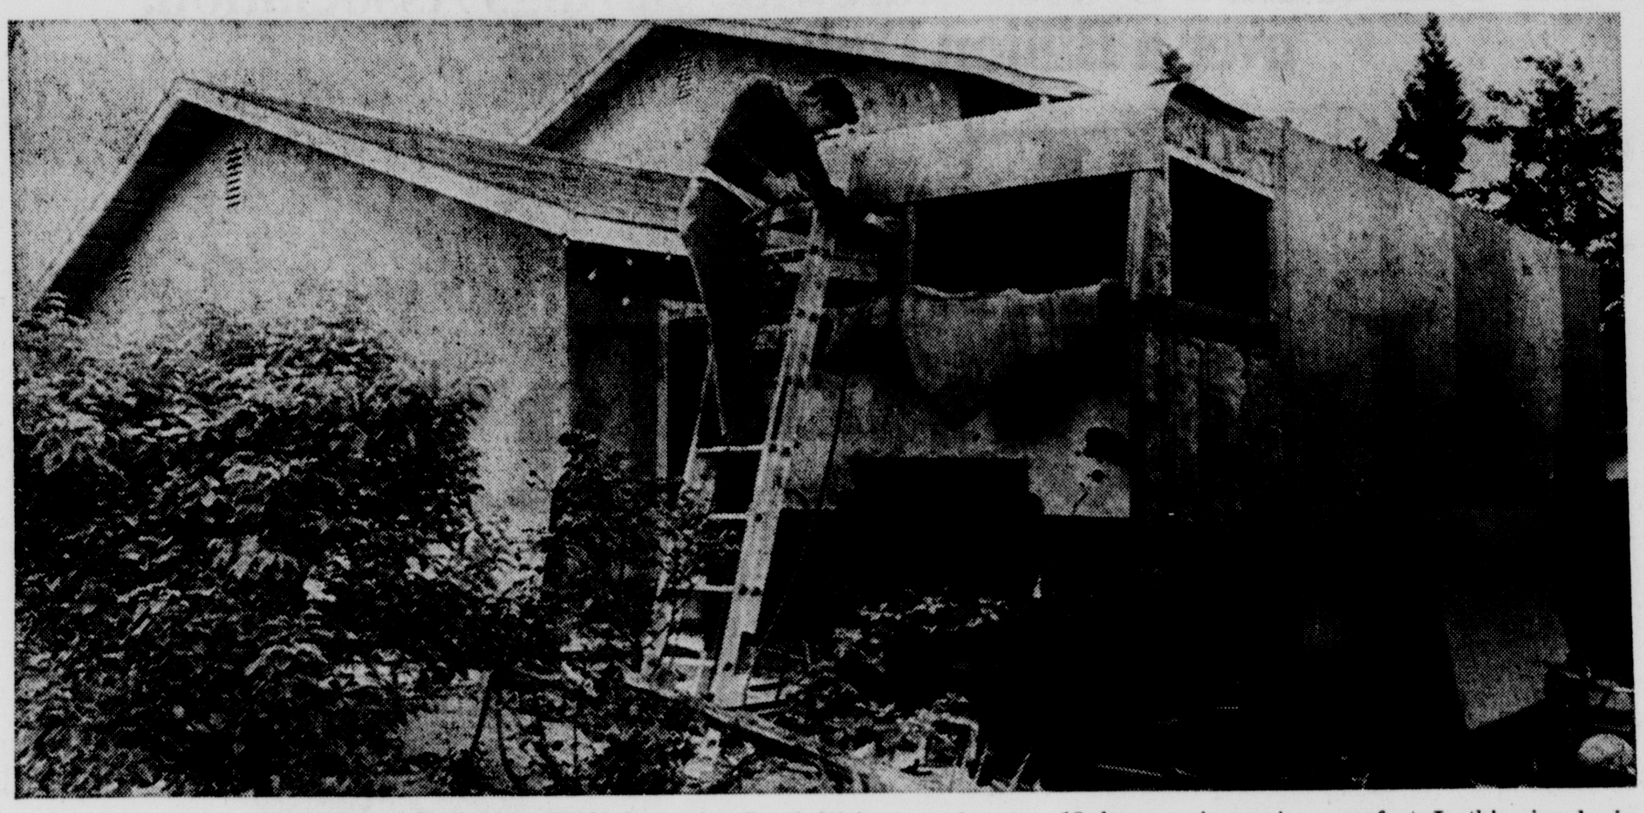
"Where would we put all these classes?" was Falloon's response. The board is struggling with plans for a bond election sometime next year to keep up with growth in student population. Sismondo's response was the proposal was aimed at a district commitment to include the smaller class sizes in planning.

The commitment would be tied to some kind of construction schedule, Sismondo suggested in referring the question to more thorough probing during meet-and-confer meetings.

Finally, the CEC asked that adjustments be made to Suzanne Intermediate School schedules so that teachers there work the same number of minutes in the classroom as elementary level instructors. They said the present difference of 50 more minutes per week at Suzanne is "unfair" since teachers get no salary differentials.

Trustees indicated the proposal would be difficult to work out, since from initial reactions it seems either the school's program must be cut or more staff added.

Over all, the board asked CEC to develop more supporting material for its proposals. Trustees repeatedly asked for cost estimates and possible alternatives to implement the proposals. They indicated discussion of the proposals was limited without such data. Trustee Frank Morales encapsuled these sentiments in asking for at least cost estimates "so we can put these ideas into some context."



DOUBLING HIS HOME

Cecil Alsip, 20838 Lycoming Road, Walnut, works on a 25-foot motor home in front of his home. The owner of A&H Trucking in Los Angeles has been involved in the project more than two months, aiming for completion by Christmas time. Built on a 1969 Chevrolet motorhome chassis, the vehicle will sleep 12, he says, in spacious comfort. In this view he is finishing up sheathing and insulation on the front and left sides, while the right is nearly complete. Alsip estimated his vehicle would cost about $5,000 complete, and a comparable, commercially produced one, $22,000.

Business education class accepting registrations

INDUSTRY — Registrations still are being accepted for the evening business education program at Valley Vocational Center (VVC).

According to Don Roth, VVC administrator, students may avoid daytime crowds and receive more individual attention in the evening program.

"This is an excellent opportunity for those who work days yet would like to upgrade their jobs," said Roth.

The business education program offers classes on data processing, switchboard and office reception, business calculators and secretarial skills such as typing and shorthand.

Classes are held continually from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday, and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Most of the classes take one year to complete, but the evening data-processing class may be finished in 18 weeks, said Roth.

Free on-campus child care is provided during day and evening hours. Additional information may be obtained by calling the VVC at 213 968-4638.

Kung Fu founder coming to MSAC

WALNUT — James Wing Woo, founder of his own system of Kung Fu, will demonstrate the martial art along with Tai Chi Chuan exercises Dec. 11 and 12 at 2 p.m. in the Mt. San Antonio College art gallery.

Sponsored by the college's community services, the demonstrations are open to the public at no charge.

Class schedules trip to museum

LA PUENTE — As part of its goal to enhance family life, the afternoon parent-child participation class at La Puente Community Adult School is planning a field trip to the El Monte Historical Society Museum Wednesday.

"Towns as well as families have histories which should be appreciated," said Mrs. Jean Gandy, the class instructor.

Parents and their children will go by chartered bus, leaving the Hudson Adult Center at 10 a.m. and returning at 1 p.m.

Potpourri of business items coming before Walnut council Wednesday

WALNUT — City councilmen will tie up loose ends Wednesday night in a session covering a multitude of items appeared in previous meetings, including a hotly contested city parking ordinance.

Beginning at 8 p.m. at city hall, the meeting will also include a public hearing on annexation of a new housing tract into the city's slope maintenance district, a resolution ordering stop signs on Vejar Road at Radcliff Drive, a pay increase for City Manger Andy Lazzaretto, and status reports on removal of a city entrance sign and on improvements at Suzanne Park.

Two weeks ago a host of ired homeowners filled the council room to protest renewed enforcement of an ordinance barring overnight parking on the streets. Over their complaints the council agreed to let the ordinance and enforcement program stand. Wednesday the panel will hear a status report on the program.

Councilmen devoted lengthy discussion at their last meeting to the proposed annexation of the Larwin tract to a maintenance district to insure proper development of slopes in the area and future care of the slopes. Approximately 20 acres are involved in the maintenance area, which fronts on La Puente Road and extends along the sides and rear of the 90-acre subdivision.

Another group of residents in the session two weeks ago petitioned the council for stop signs on Vejar at Radcliff. They claimed traffic habitually exceeded the automatic 25-miles-per-hour speed limit, endangering children in the vicinity.

Despite a traffic engineer's report which recommended posting the area for speed but against traffic signs, councilmen agreed to have a resolution drawn up to order the signs placed. That measure will come before the panel for action Wednesday.

In executive session two weeks ago the panel agreed to raise Lazzaretto's $18,500 annual salary by 5.5 per cent. During budget studies last June the council decided to wait on the salary increase until a review this month, which brought the resolution for the increase to the coming meeting. The pay hike will be retroactive to July 1.

A deteriorating, vandalized sign at Lemon Avenue and Valley Boulevard proclaims, "Welcome to Walnut — Home of the Mt. San Antonio Relays" followed by an obliterated and incorrect population figure. Councilmen previously decided the sign, a gift from the Chamber of Commerce, has become embarrassing to the city since its condition is so bad. Cost of repairs would be too high, they decided, so the staff was ordered to investigate removal. A report will come to the panel.

Improvements at the north end of Suzanne Park have been under way since late summer as volunteers and city maintenance crews worked on a pair of softball diamonds. Councilmen will be brought up to date on the projects.

Fathers will join their children

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A fathers' day program will be conducted Saturday, by the parent-child participation class at Bixby Community School.

Fathers will attend with their children.

"Normally, mothers attend with the children," said teacher Lavonne Stranak. "This time fathers will have the opportunity of participating."

Fathers and children will finger paint, easel paint, make blocks, play readiness games, puzzles and have cutting and pasting experiences.

There will be a meeting between the fathers and the teacher to discuss the father's role in the growth and development process of the child.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. and end at noon.

D.B. Homeowners have counter plan to high-density housing development

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, unhappy over a proposed new high-density housing development, has agreed on a low-density counter proposal.

The proposal approved by members that single-family residences be built on 10,000-square-foot lots on the 426-acre site will be relayed to the prospective developer and the county Regional Planning Commission.

The development, proposed by the Donald Schlotz Co., on land west of the Orange Freeway at Pathfinder Road called Roaring Creek, would bring 12,000 new residents into the area in five years

It calls for a combination of townhouses, cluster housing and single-family residences for a total of about 3,000 housing units.

Frank Skrah, publicity director for the homeowners, said the new project first was presented to a joint meeting of the zoning and planning committees of the Rowland Heights and Diamond Bar homeowners associations "after the developers' presentation fell on deaf ears at the county Regional Planning Commission.

"The developers and the homeowners association were so far apart in the areas of rezoning and density that the planning commission sent both groups back to the bargaining table," said Skrah.

The developers had asked to place 8.8 units on each acre.

Skrah said the Diamond Bar Homeowners were making their low-density counter proposal in order to:

— Keep in continuity with existing neighborhoods.

— Preserve the open space atmosphere of the Diamond Bar area.

— Maintain and keep within the existing county and Diamond Bar general plans.

— Acknowledge that the area cannot support with schools, shopping facilities, etc., 12,000 new residents in that short a time period.

— And stress that the association's policy of low density development be adhered to where possible.

Soviets now top naval power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Navy is expanding with pretensions of becoming the world's foremost naval power, a distinction some experts believe it already has achieved.

Last year the Russians surpassed the United States in number of nuclear missile-carrying submarines, though not in number or sophistication of missiles. This year the Soviet navy acquired air power for the first time with the launching of its first aircraft carrier, and a second is under construction.

U.S. Navy officials generally concede the Soviets have a lead in developing ship-to-ship missiles, and now boast a fleet built primarily in the 1960s while the older U.S. fleet still includes many vessels of World War II vintage.

Jane's Fighting Ships, the most authoritative publication on worldwide seapower, said last summer the Soviet navy had made "staggering advances" in just one year. It said the Russians had the "super navy of a super power."

Detractors of the view of a rapidly ascendant Soviet fleet says numbers can be deceiving. They argue that while the Russians outnumber the United States in submarines, 350 to 140, each country has about 100 nuclear subs, the most significant gauge of submarine strength, and the rest are old-fashioned diesel subs.

Naval experts here point to other factors beyond mere numbers as a cause for concern, however, including the growth in Soviet shipyard capacity and corresponding decline in American shipyards.

Another factor in the Russians' progress in matching the pioneering U.S. techniques of refueling and supplying ships at sea, resulting in diminished Soviet requirements for a heavy backup of noncombat support ships.

A bigger worry for U.S. naval planners is the prospect of a growing and improving Soviet carrier fleet, which would enable the Russians to steadily extend the reach of their military might.

Hit-run driver cuts off power

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 1,000 residents and business owners were affected by a 90-minute blackout Sunday caused by the downing of two power lines by a hit-and-run driver.

Sheriff's deputies said they were seeking the driver, who fled on foot after his car knocked down the 16,000-volt and 4,000-volt power lines.

Big car drivers

Montana and North Dakota residents own more cars per person — 690 per 1,000 — than residents of any other state.

Impeachment of President urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two documents published by Washington lawyers during the weekend urge the impeachment of President Nixon, citing more than two dozen alleged crimes ranging from tax evasion to bribery to the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Four public interest lawyers published a 169-page volume entitled "Bribery, and Other High Crimes and Misdemeanors," listing 28 specific "indictable common crimes" for which Nixon could be impeached. It was sponsored by General Motors heir Stewart Mott and was put out "as a patriotic venture," said former corporate lawyer William Dobrovir, one of the authors.

At the same time, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) released a handbook listing 17 ways citizens could help bring about impeachment and citing six specific impeachable offenses.

"In these pages," the ACLU said, "the American people are provided with the means by which to effect the peaceful overthrow of tyrant." The handbook explained that impeachment is only an indictment and not a finding of guilt.

The pamphlet suggested citizens make speeches and write their congressmen as ways to pressure the House to bring impeachment proceedings.

The Dobrovir group argued that a legal principle established in the 1938 federal prosecution of gangster Lucky Luciano held that the head of an organization is responsible for crimes committed by subordinates, thus making Nixon culpable for Watergate - related offenses he said he knew nothing about.

The publications listed the following as some of the offenses Nixon allegedly committed:

—Bribery, by accepting a $2 million pledge from the dairy industry and by offering the federal judge hearing the Pentagon Papers case the job of FBI director.

—Embezzlement, by having his private homes improved at taxpayer expense.

Tax evasion, by taking a major gift deduction (donation of his vice presidental papers to the public), which "had not been timely made and consummated."

—Violation of the First Amendment by approving domestic espionage against dissidents.

—Violation of Congress' warmaking powers by approving the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Karabian feels he's cinch in A.G. race

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Walter Karabian, who parlays elegant food, fine wine and imported cigars into political contributions, said Monday a whopping $650,000 has been pledged to his primary campaign for attorney general.

The balding 35-year-old Democrat has perfected the art of the political fundraising dinner from mashed potatoes and roast chicken to what one supporter calls a "sumptuous evening."

The price tag: $200 per plate (or $2,000 a table) at the posh Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills.

And, Karabian confidently predicted the only way he could lose the Democratic nomination in June is to "someone who had more money than I have and would use that money in a big television campaign."

So far, he is the only Democrat to formally announce for the post now held by Republican Evelle J. Younger, who is expected to run for governor.

How does the Monterey Park legislator corral so much money and from whom?

He throws elegant dinners and invites prosperous friends and supporters, many of them college chums from the University of Southern California. Karabian said lobbyists are not invited.

Robert Chick, a Los Angeles insurance executive and Karabian fundraiser, described the candidate's supporters as long-time friends, professionals and businessmen whose virtually only involvement in financing political campaigns has been through Karabian.

"They feel there is a need for them to be involved in community life," said Chick, an aide to former Gov. Edmund G. Brown. "They feel they found in Walter an intelligent, creative and responsible public figure. They are willing to commit themselves."

Karabian said in an interview that $414,000 of his pledges for $650,000 will be raised an extravagant dinner Feb. 9 at the Beverly Hilton. The dinner itself is expected to cost roughly $40,000.

Already, he has grossed $240,000 from previous similar fundraisers. His goal was to net $500,000 for the primary campaign.

Karabian said the $414,000 was pledged to him at a recent private dinner at a fancy Los Angeles restaurant. About 130 friends and supporters were treated to a sumptuous meal, the best wines and imported after-dinner cigars.

Then the participants individually committed themselves to sell tickets or buy tickets at $200 a copy to the Feb. 9 fundraiser. If they were unable to sell the number they had agreed to, they would make up the difference from their own resources.

"It was spectacularly successful," said Chick. "There were 207 tables pledged at $2,000 a table for a sum of $414,000."

Karabian, a lawyer in his fourth term in the Assembly, included in his list of supporters Mike Garrett, running back for the San Diego Chargers professional football team; Southern California bankers Jack Arakelian and John Gabriel; Richard Hernandez, a Los Angeles attorney; Michael Bagdasarian, an insurance executive; and Mark Boyer, a long-time Democratic philanthropist.

Karabian, who favors repeal of criminal penalties for possession and use of marijuana, views himself now as virtually unbeatable in the June primary.

Retired auto, 52, victim of drunk driver

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first car sold by Felix Chevrolet Co. survived 52 years on the streets and highways, only to be done in while standing still, in honored retirement, inside a showroom.

The Chevrolet dealership bought back the car, a 1921 model valued at $10,000, polished it up and exhibited it in the dealership.

That was where it was demolished early Sunday when a speeding auto, allegedly driven by a drunk being pursued by an off-duty policeman, came crashing through the window.

The policeman, Willie Patton, said a car driven by Willie Hoard, 55, smashed into the rear of Patton's personal auto. Patton said he told Hoard to pull around the corner so they could discuss the damage. Instead, he said, Hoard sped off, and he chased him.

Hoard allegedly drove through a red light, crashed into another car, doing minor injury to the driver, ricocheted across the street, over the curb, through the 16-foot high plate glass windows of the Chevrolet dealership, battered several new autos and then smashed into the 1921 model.

Hoard was held on suspicion of felony drunk driving.

UCB joins efforts to save energy

LOS ANGELES — Because of the energy crisis lighted outdoor signs at United California Bank's 254 California offices will be turned off.

This is one of several conservation measures requested by UCB chairman Norman Barker Jr.

Barker estimated the darkened signs will result in an annual savings of three million kilowatt hours of electricity, the equivalent of the normal consumption of 600 homes.

The outdoor decorative lighting for UCB's new 62-story headquarters building in downtown Los Angeles will not be used, Barker said.

He has requested employes of all 254 offices to adjust thermostats downward four degrees, eliminate all decorative lighting and reduce the size of light bulbs inside where possible.

Barker also urged UCB employes to join car pools and use public transportation as much as possible in an effort to conserve energy.

Legislator will press action on daylight saving

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, says he plans to introduce a resolution asking Congress to establish year-round daylight savings time nationwide to help ease the energy crisis.

"Daylight savings to me seems to be the most logical immediate step we can take to help conserve our energy resources without seriously inconveniencing this country's citizens and industries," Wilson said Tuesday.

Wilson authored legislation earlier this year to create an extra hour of evening sunlight during the months of June, July, August and September in California.

Younger unit to probe irregular campaign funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle Younger is forming a special unit to investigate possible future irregularities in campaign finance reporting.

Younger declared Sunday that under a new law which takes effect Jan. 1 his office "has been given primary jurisdiction over many aspects of campaign finance reporting in California."

The law requires more detailed identification of sources of campaign funds. It also requires the names of persons who contribute above $100. Currently the names do not have to be disclosed unless the contribution is over $500.

Schembechler blasts everyone

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Coach Bo Schembechler, feeling his Michigan team suffered a "great wrong" in not being selected to go to the Rose Bowl, wants the authority to determine which team goes placed in the hands of the bowl committee.

He also charged in an emotion-laden speech Monday that Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke "engineered" Ohio State's selection despite being tied 10-10 and outplayed for three quarters by Michigan in their battle of unbeatens last Saturday.

"Every bowl (except ours) is scouted," Schembechler said. "A football committee should select the team it wants to play in the Rose Bowl and if the Big Ten doesn't like it, it can dissolve the pact. The Rose Bowl should come out and get whoever they want.

"I want Wayne Duke to come and explain to my team why they aren't good enough to play in the Rose bowl," Schembechler said, his normally controlled voice breaking with emotion.

"I want him to tell Dennis Franklin that in his medical opinion, he cannot play," he said. "I want him to tell Larry Cipa —look him right in the eye —and tell him he's not good enough to quarterback my team in the Rose Bowl."

"I have been in contact with University of Michigan authorities regarding this matter," Duke replied from Chicago, "and will be in further contact with these authorities regarding the overall matter."

The Big Ten commissioner said Schembechler's feeling he "engineered" Ohio State into the Rose Bowl was "totally absurd."

"If he didn't engineer it, he at least influenced it by pointing out Franklin's injury," Schembechler said. "This is the first time he's ever been to a Michigan game that he didn't show up in the locker room. He didn't show up in the other one (Ohio State's), either."

The coach of the Wolverines, more distraught with the decision than he ever has been over the few football games he's lost, reiterated his belief the 6-4 vote's "biggest issue was Franklin. But there were others, petty things—and if not that, ignorance."

A few final words about SAL champs

The San Antonio League didn't enjoy one of its finest seasons this year in football, but for the two teams which won the league championship and went on to the CIF playoffs, it was a special year.

Especially in Chino.

The Cowboys, who were considered the doormat of the SAL for years, just may have turned everything around. Chino entered the post-season playoffs for the first time since the late 1950's last weekend. And even though the SAL co-champs lost to Villa Park, 27-3, the season was more than just a successful one.

"Going from last to first place in one year is a hell of an accomplishment," commented Chino coach Jim Rawls in wrapping up the season for the Cowboys. "It was a great season."

Rawls was comparing this year's Cowboys to last year's Chino team, which finished in last place in the SAL with a lowly and unimpressive 2-7 record.

Chino finished this year with a 6-4 mark after tying for the league title with a 5-2 slate.

★ ★ ★

"We indoctrinated a whole new offense and a whole new defense this year," Rawls added. "Our offense was coming around late in the season, and we even gained 249 yards against Villa Park — the most we've had all season." The Cowboys were averaging 222 yards per game in total offense, and they had their biggest offensive game against the Orange County's toughest defense.

"We were really scared in that game," explained the second-year head coach, "it being the first time we've been in the playoffs in a long time. We should have more people out for the team next year because of this season. It's hard to compete against a team which has 80 players when you only have about 32."

Rawls expressed optimism in Chino's future football fortunes, figuring the Cowboys will be contenders from here on out.

"I think this is the start," warned Rawls. "I told the Villa Park coach 'good luck and see you later — we'll be back.'"

Pomona coach Mike Clifton had mixed emotions about the Red Devils 1973 campaign.

"I was a little disappointed with our 5-5 record, but obviously we were excited about winning a share of the league championship," he said. "It bothers me that we won the championship with that record when we could have easily finished the year with an 8-2 record. We lost one game by one point, one by two points and one by three points.

But the second year Red Devil head coach was pleased with the way his team performed after injuries looked as though they were going to bump Pomona out of contention for any kind of title.

"We had to change our offense twice this year," he pointed. "First we lost our end Jim McCain and had to switch to a little stronger running game. Then we lost Raymond Butler and had to revert back to a passing game. Considering everything that happened to us this year, I think we did a good job."

Clifton sees a change in the old Pomona tradition in the next few years, if not for the remainder of Pomona's history in the SAL. But with junior highs moving the ninth graders up the high schools next year, it may help the Red Devil cause.

"Pomona has been known in the past to have big linemen," noted Clifton. "But now it looks as though we're not going to have very many. We're going to get the ninth graders and that will help the program, but we'll still be short of big linemen. We might have to come up with a Steve Taylor year after year."

Impressive or not, the San Antonio League record books for 1973 will show Chino and Pomona on top — and that's what counts.

Matthews top N. L. rookie in big margin

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Matthews isn't exactly a household name yet but the San Francisco Giants think he has the potential to be one some day.

Matthews, who was worried about just making the club in spring training, achieved the first pinnacle on his way to widespread recognition by the fans Monday when he was named the National League's rookie-of-the-year award by a landslide margin.

Despite an outstanding season which included a .300 average and 17 stolen bases, Matthews didn't capture that much attention this season because Bobby Bonds had such a super season for the Giants and most of the publicity the club received was focused on him.

But Matthews won the left field spot to form with centerfielder Garry Maddox and rightfielder Bonds what the Giants think is the fastest outfield in the majors.

In the balloting of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Matthews received 11 votes to 3 1-2 for Montreal pitcher Steve Rogers. The 24 writers—two in each league city—were allowed to vote for only one player but one voter split his ballot with one-half vote each for Rogers and Pittsburgh's Richie Zisk.

'NEED ANY HELP?'

It looks as though Green Bay's Al Matthews is trying to help San Francisco 49er Vic Washington across the goal line during the Monday night NFL game. Washington didn't need Matthews' help as he scored from one yard out in the second quarter. The 49ers went on to win, 20-6.

Joe Reed is learning fast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Reed may have come of age but the jury is still out on Jerry Tagge.

The two young quarterbacks hooked up in Monday night's nationally televised NFL game and when it was all over, Reed and the San Francisco 49ers had a 20-6 victory over Tagge and the Green Bay Packers.

Reed, starting his third straight game at quarterback, completed only five of 16 passes for 44 yards. On the surface, that looks like a very mediocre performance, but it was far from that.

San Francisco coach Dick Nolan let Reed call his own game and that's where the second-year man, who started the 1973 season on the taxi squad, really shined, leading the 49ers to a 10-6 edge into the fourth quarter before bowing out for Steve Spurrier because of a groin muscle pull.

"I was really pleased with Reed's effort," said Nolan. 'He called a good game and, had he not been hurt, I don't know if I would have replaced him with Spurier."

Reed, who played his collegiate ball at Mississippi State, seemed pleased, too, with play calling against the Packers and was appreciative Nolan let him.

"The coach went along with me," he said, "and I think I built a lot of confidence out of that. We didn't go into the game with any definite plans other than to see if we could execute better than we had been doing."

That the 49ers did, putting together their best running game of the year behind Vic Washington and Ken Willard while snapping a four-game losing streak. However, it was only their fourth victory against seven losses and hardly is cause for celebration.

Yet, a victory is a victory and when you accomplish it before a national television audience, it means something to the individuals involved.

"I really enjoyed this game," said Washington, who rushed for 94 yards and scored San Francisco's first touchdown on a one-yard smash. "We finally put it together. The blocking was there, the holes were there. I just hope we can keep it up because it will make for a lot nicer winter."

Spurrier threw 20 yards to Ted Kwalick for San Francisco's other touchdown and Bruce Gossett made it 12 field goals in a row without a miss on boots of 25 and 22 yards.

Green Bay got its only points on field goals of 35 and 15 yards by Chester Marcol.

"We played a very tough football game," said Packer coach Dan Devine. "It was about as tough as we can stand in there. We played an inspired game, except for not winning."

Two pass interceptions by Dave Wilcox on Tagge, an interference penalty on Al Matthews and a personal foul on Jim Hill figured in 17 of San Francisco's points, and that's what upset Devine, whose club now stands 3-6-2.

'Those penalties and interceptions hurt—you're damn right they do," said Devine. "I don't even want to talk about them. They make me sick to my stomach."

Tagge, who completed 10 of 18 passes for 107 yards before being relieved by Jim Del Gaizo in the fourth quarter, said he thought he played well, except for the two interceptions by Wilcox.

"I didn't even see him (Wilcox) on the first one," said the second-year man from Nebraska, "and on the second, he made a helluva play. I tried to throw it over him. It's frustrating when you think you gave all you have and it isn't enough."

Where the 49ers really won the game was up front on defense. They held hardrunning John Brockington and MacArthur Lane to 19 yards, and that made the difference.

Wooden, Boyd agree

Pac-8 cagers much improved

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Pacific -8 Conference will be vastly improved this year according to coaches John Wooden of UCLA and Bob Boyd of USC.

Both coaches named their starting lineups for this week's openers for the benefit of writers at the first of the weekly basketball writers luncheons.

The defending national champion Bruins play Arkansas Friday night and Maryland (fourth-ranked in pre-season polls) Saturday night.

The Trojans, who wound up second in the conference and played in the National Invitational Tournament in New York, will wait until Saturday when they host Arizona.

Wooden told writers he will start Bill Walton (6-11) at center, Keith Wilkes (6-6) and Dave Meyers (6-8) at forward, Tommy Curtis (5-11) at the "point," and either Greg Lee (6-4) or Pete Trgovich (6-5) at the "wing."

The veteran UCLA coach is high on two of his freshman, Jimmy Spillane of Palos Verdes and the highly publicized Richard Washington.

"Jimmy is small (5-10½ — 150 pounds), quciker than most and can jump and shoot," Wooden commented. "I think people probably expected Richard, because of all the publicity, to be better than he is. But he is going to be a fine player. He's very agile for a big man. He has to learn to go to the boards more aggressively defensively and he has the talent to do it. Offensively, he's good individually now, but has to learn team offense."

One thing that had been a matter of contention was settled. Washington, who was widely publicized to be a seven-footer and then said to be somewhat shorter than that, is 6-9. He was measured along with all the other players for the 1973-74 roster and is listed as 6-9.

The "Wizard of Westwood" also called attention to this year's schedule which calls for second-ranked North Carolina St. (at St. Louis, Dec. 15) and Notre Dame twice, plus San Francisco in the Bruin Classic Dec. 28 and 29.

Boyd, who has everybody back from last year's 18-10 squad, said his team had held the best practice he'd ever seen at USC.

"Our playerss are much more mature than last year and I think we can win more than the 18 games we won last year," Boyd said.

The Trojan coach said he would start Bob Trowbridge (6-8) at forward either Clint Chapman (6-9) or John Lambert (6-10) along with Mike Westra (6-10) in the high-low post offense.

The guards will be Dan Andersen and Gus Williams. Each is 6-2.

"Arizona will be starting three sophomores and two freshmen," Boyd said. "But it will be as tough an opener as anybody could want. "The Wildcats were 16-10 last year.

Qutoting the coaches:

BOB MILLER, CSLA — "Raymond Lewis was the top newcomer in the Philadelphia 76ers' rookie camp last spring. He had signed a contract without using an agent but consulted a lawyer afterward and discovered clauses in the pact made it extremely difficult for Lewis to earn all the money it called for.

"Raymond went to camp this fall and wanted to re-negotiate his contract, but the new general manager refused. I advised Raymond to go ahead and play this year in order to get some experience and remain active, but he didn't see it that way. The amount of money he signed for is more than I will earn in my entire lifetime, but Raymond doesn't think it's enough. Right now he's at home in Compton and very unhappy.

"Darcy Bailey (Chaffey College) will see lots of action this year."

DANA PADGETT, LOYOLA ASSISTANT — "We play UC Irvine Friday night in the Pomona Host Lions Classic at Cal Poly. We have four returning starters, but none of them is a center. We've moved 6-6 forward Brad Dean to center. Coach Dave Benaderet has a 103 degree temperature and the flu and could not be here today."

LUTE OLSON, LONG BEACH ST. — "Clifford Pondexter has been a revelation and will start Saturday against Puget Sound. He could be the best big man ever recruited here. We'll have a powerful front line. The lightest is Clifton's brother Roscoe at 230. Clifton weighs 235 and Leonard Gray 245."

Sherman added to Rams roster

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams added veteran wide receiver Rod Sherman to their roster Monday and put Joe Sweet, another wide receiver, on the injured list because of a pulled hamstring.

Sherman, 28, a former University of Southern California standout, was cut by the Minnesota Vikings before the season started and has not played this year.

In six pro seasons, the 6-foot, 190-pounder has caught 104 passes for 1,568 yards and five touchdowns, including 38 passes for 661 yards and three TDs for Denver last year. He spent four years with the Oakland Raiders.

Minnesota acquired Sherman from the Broncos for wide receiver Gene Washington.

The Rams, who lead the NFC West by one game over Atlanta with a 9-3 record, are in Chicago next Sunday and then close out their regular season home schedule at home against the New York Giants and Cleveland.

Poly's Anderson stepping down

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Cal Poly football coach Roy Anderson has decided he has had enough.

Anderson, who has been battling for five years to build Poly's football fortunes, is through fighting for help from the university's administration to compete on an equal basis in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

The Poly mentor, who built the Broncos into respectability, has decided to retire after five years at the university. He informed his football team on his decision shortly before Saturday's 35-29 win over USIU in the season finale and made the public announcement Monday.

"Let's just say I am retiring," Anderson said. "I have no definite plans at this moment but I hope to travel some."

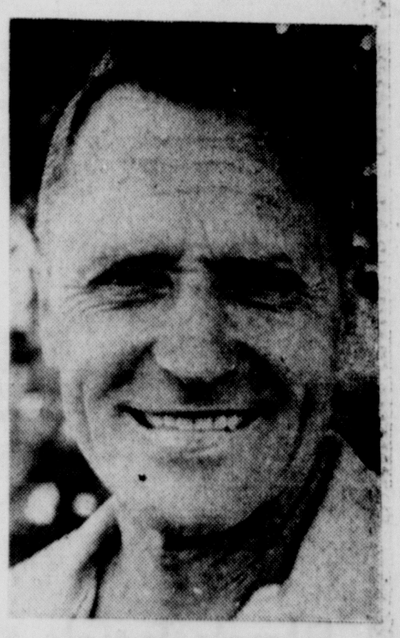
Anderson is recommending his top assistant, Marv Weetman, to take his place. Weetman, a Cal Poly alumnus, returned to the university last fall after serving on Jim Owens' staff at Washington.

The Broncos just completed a 4-6-1 season. Under Anderson, Poly was 21-30-1.

When he accepted the Poly job in 1969 after serving on the UC Santa Barbara staff, Anderson inherited an 0-10 team. His first Bronco squad was 2-8 followed by 5-5, 6-5, 4-6 and 4-6-1 campaigns. The 6-5 mark in 1971 was the university's first winning season since 1962.

However, Anderson's teams were only 4-15 against CCAA opposition as he maintained his squads were not able to compete on an equal financial basis with the likes of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Cal State Fullerton, Cal State Northridge, and UC Riverside.

"I hope we made progress during my five years," Anderson said. "I hope I am leaving the situation in better shape than when I found it. I hope the program has improved to some degree. But it is obvious there are some things I had hoped would happen to improve some more."



ROY ANDERSON
. . . is retiring

Asked why he has decided to retire, Anderson answered, "I'm tired. I feel it's time for someone else to take over."

A retired officer in the Air Force, Anderson coached at Roswell High in his native New Mexico, The Citadel, Air Force Academy and Santa Babara before coming to Poly.

After an outstanding career as a quarterback at the University of New Mixico, Anderson played a year with the Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League.

Anderson was able to make Cal Poly respectable but he found it impossible to build into a genuine championship contender in the rugged CCAA because of the lack of funds for scholarships and recruiting.

Black back to battle MSAC cagers tonight

Caldwell Black, a former assistant basketball coach at Cal Poly University, returns to the valley tonight as head coach of L.A. Southwest College.

Black's team 1-0 tangles with coach Gene Victor's Mt. San Antonio College Mounties in a 7:30 p.m. game at MSAC.

MSAC is 1-2 with a lone victory over the Alumni, 80-75, and back-to-back losses last weekend to Glendale, 75-53, and Citrus, 83-74. Southwest beat El Camino, 78-77.

In one other game tonight, Chaffey College hosts East Los Angeles. The Panthers will be looking for their second victory after splitting season opening decisions with Pasadena and Moorpark. Chaffey beat Pasadena, 73-61, Friday, and fell to Moorpark, 79-78 Saturday.

The Panthers complete the week by hosting Mesa, Ariz. Thursday and Phoenix, Ariz. Friday night. MSAC travels to the central part of the state this weekend for games at Reedley Friday, and Fresno Saturday.

Citrus College (1-1) returns to action Thursday, opening the first round of the Don Edwards Memorial Tournament against Barstow at 9 p.m. Other first round pairings have Cypress meeting Pasadena at 3 p.m., Cerritos facing East L.A. at 7 p.m. and Santa Monica meeting North Peralta of Oakland at 5 p.m.

Valley teams place eight on All-SCIAC

CLAREMONT — Larry Cenotto and Biff Sherman of Pomona-Pitzer lead a group of eight local players named to the All-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) team selected by the coaches.

Cenotto led the conference quarterbacks in passing all season long. His favorite target was Sherman, the tight end who returned to football this year after concentrating on baseball in 1972. Sherman was the league's top receiver.

Offensive guard Eric Friedman of the Sagehens also made the first team as Pomona-Pitzer and La Verne each placed three players and Claremont-Mudd two.

Running backs Mike Graber of the Stags and Curtis Frick of the Leopards combined with George Mallory of Occidental in the offensive backfield.

Middle guard Jeff Button and back Casey O'Gorman of the Leos and end Sam Reece of the Stags were named to the defensive team.

All of the La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer contingent will return next year while Claremont-Mudd will lose both Graber and Reece through graduation.

It marked the third straight year Reece has been honored. Graber was a first-team selection in 1971 and made second-team last year.

MSAC's Steve Myer voted South Coast's top player

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College quarterback Steve Myer was a unanimous choice as Player of the Year and wide receiver John McIntyre was a first team selection to the All-South Coast Conference football team chosen this week by conference coaches.

Myer ended a two-year career at MSAC by leading the South Coast in passing by completing 52 per cent of his passes for 1,399 yards and 15 touchdowns.

McIntyre, a sophomore who prepped at Walnut High, was Myer's main TD target, catching 10 scoring strikes and 33 passes altogether for more than 500 yards. He ranked No. 2 in the conference in receptions behind teammate Gil Stewart who was a second team selection at wide receiver. Stewart caught 37 passes for more than 400 yards with no touchdowns.

Two other Mounties — defensive tackle Rick Gohl and defensive back-place kicker Tom MacKenzie — were voted to the first team defensive unit. Sophomore defensive end Damon Petta and freshmen defensive back Larry Burrell were second team choices, giving MSAC seven selections altogether.

... Player of Year

Tailback Teddy Farmer, who led the conference in rushing with 704 yards and a 5.1 average for the season, was snubbed in the balloting for a first or second team berth at running back.

Myer and MacKenzie were All-South Coast selections a year ago.

Myer's two-year statistics rank him as the most productive passer in MSAC history. He completed 308 passes in 567 attempts for 3,643 yards and 29 touchdowns.

As a defensive back and place-kicker, MacKenzie intercepted eight passes, recovered eight fumbles and was in on more than 160 tackles in two years. As a kicker he was good on 18 field goals and 39 conversions for 93 points.

DAVID JAYNES, the highly regarded quarterback from Kansas, topped a list of nine players named Monday to the West squad for the Dec. 29 East-West Shrine Football Game.

THE CALIFORNIA BASEBALL League will alter its 1974 schedule to effect a reduction of approximately 12 per cent in the amount of electricity used for its night games, league president Eddie Mulligan announced Monday.

Mulligan said the move is being made in an effort to cooperate with a request from the California Public Utilities Commission calling for the curtailed use of energy.

THIS YEAR'S GREATER Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament will have a slightly earlier starting date but it will be on the same course and with the same prize money, $130,000, GMO officials said Monday.

Robert Templin, GMO president, said the Professional Golf Association has approved the tournament for another year, its seventh.

The tournament will run from Wednesday to Saturday, July 3-6, to give golfers an extra day of travel to prepare for the British Open the next week.

FRANK MALONEY, newly-appointed Syracuse football coach, said he will take the 1974 Orangemen to a bowl game, despite this season's dismal 2-9 record.

Maloney, whose appointment had been a poorly kept secret for three weeks, was formally named head coach Monday and told newsmen that SU football was "a sleeping giant" and not in store for a rebuilding period.

EDDIE CROWDER, the winningest coach in Colorado football history, said Monday he was going to spend the next few days in seclusion pondering his future.

Crowder, whose team was 5-6 the past season for its second losing campaign in nine years, said he would not even discuss the possibilities that he has until he reaches a final decision. Among others they include his resignation or the dismissal of all or part of his staff.

Drake receives MVP award at Bonita football banquet

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Quarterback Harold Drake, who directed the potent Bonita High offense to a 6-3 season record, was named as Most Valuable Player on the 1973 Bearcat football squad Monday night in the school's awards banquet held at Griswold's Pavilion.

Drake was cited by Coach Pete Lopez for his fine play and the rapid manner in which he learned the Bearcats' tricky "Houston Veer" offense. Drake helped make that offense into one of the most effective running attacks in the Hacienda League.

Guest speakers at the banquet were star running backs Rod McNeill and Allen Carter of the Rose Bowl-bound Southern California Trojans. Carter, a former great running back at Bonita, and McNeill related the elation they both felt after their big win over rival UCLA.

Both men expressed hope for a career in pro ball, and Carter mentioned he was looking for a big year in 1974, when he will be a senior.

Asked about playing Ohio State once again in the Rose Bowl, Carter replied, "I would just as soon we were playing Michigan. Ohio State has something on us from last year (referring to the Trojans' big 42-17 win last New Year's) and should really be up for the game."

Neither man was very happy about the triple-platooning that Coach John McKay has gone to at their tailback spot, with Anthony Davis alternating playing time with them. "It's a tough situation for Coach McKay," explained McNeill, "since all three of us feel that we would be full-time starters on any other college team in the country."

Other awards for the Bearcat varsity featured sophomore fullback Brad Frick receiving Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Frick wound up the season with 200-plus yard rushing effort against Sierra Vista to finish 1973 with over 1,000 yards on the ground.

Steve Rodriguez was honored as the Defensive Player of the Year, while Richard Ortega received the Coaches Award and Buster Wilson was named as the Most Inspirational Bearcat.

Offensive lineman Carl Davis received a trophy for his general excellence on offense, while Rick Russi received a similar award for his defensive play.

Larry Namimatsu, a senior lineman, received the Leadership Award, and Bob Rees, also a senior, was presented the Booster Academic Excellence Award. Rees and Russi, both injured during the course of the season, were given special Booster Club awards.

Coach Lopez in his awards address stressed the teamwork and togetherness his squad showed throughout the year and pointed out that many Bonita standouts, Drake and Frick among them, will be returning to grid action next season.

Mike Green, a sophomore, was lauded as the Most Valuable Performer on the Bonita Cross-Country squad, while Bruce Hines was named as the MVP on the junior varsity football team.

New Mexico coach about to be fired

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — University of New Mexico president Ferrell Heady seemed nearly certain Monday that head football coach Rudy Feldman would be fired, but said a final decision had not been made.

Feldman's Lobos wound up a 4-7 season last weekend by defeating Colorado State, 30-13, but it has been rumored for weeks that Feldman was on his way out. There have been several reports that Feldman has already been booted, but Heady denied them.

Heady said he had recommendations to fire Feldman from the outgoing athletic director, Pete McDavid, and the new director, Lavon McDonald. He said there had been a similar recommendation from the University Athletic Council.

"I would prefer to follow the joint recommendation of the incoming and outgoing athletic directors and the athletic council and have indicated this to Coach Feldman," Heady said.

The president said he anticipated a final decision will be reached this week.

Viruet KOs Oscar Piton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adolfo Viruet of Puerto Rico handed Oscar Piton of Argentina the first defeat of his professional boxing career Monday night when he scored a third-round knockout in the feature bout at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

Viruet turned southpaw against an apparently overconfident Piton and floored him for a mandatory nine-count in the second round. He swarmed all over Piton in the third round and knocked him out at 2:34.

The victory extended Viruet's pro record to 14 straight victories while Piton's mark became 13-1-3. Viruet weighed 140 1-4 and Piton 140.

In an eight-round preliminary, Eddie Piton, Oscar's brother, outpointed Cruz Ramos of Puerto Rico. Eddie weighed 140 and Ramos 139.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"I can't get this darn child-proof top off the aspirin."

Ask Dr. Brothers

Rigid discipline

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband grew up in poverty and his father was a rigid disciplinarian. Apparently, it wasn't at all unusual for him to be beaten and to go to bed without dinner. Now, he treats our two children in the same way even though they are both old enough to resent it. He disciplines them in front of each other because he feels this will teach the one who is not guilty a lesson as well as shame the guilty one. They are forced to strip up to the waist and then he beats them with a strap. I prefer not to watch because I don't think it's right, but he won't let me leave the room.

He believes this will make them grow up to be good, obedient, hardworking citizens. My husband is more educated than I so I don't like to argue with him about this, but I see our family being split and the children growing to hate and distrust him. I too want them to be good children and good adults but there must be some other less painful way. I don't consider myself bad and I wasn't brought up in that way.—J.M.

Dear J. M.: Cruelty, such as you describe is, unfortunately, passed on from one generation to another. The abusive parent usually was abused as a child.

Good parents try to teach their children that wrongs are not solved or erased by further wrongs or by physical violence. Adults and children are healthier if they learn to express their disapproval in words. Then the child knows not only that his behavior was displeasing but why it was displeasing to his parents. The child learns to respect his parents because he sees that they are controlled and use their brain rather than resorting to physical punishment. Discipline is something the child learns from the parents. Parents administer discipline not by being angry, but by living in an organized, non-violent fashion. The child then learns to diiscipline himself.

One good way to discipline a child is to withhold some privilege, such as an allowance, a certain movie, a particular TV show, or even outdoor play for one afternoon. The most important thing is that the child knows he is still loved even though he has committed some wrong. He must know why it was wrong and the reason should not be based simply on parental authority — the old "it's wrong-because-I-said-it's-wrong" reasoning. This kind of approach fails to prepare the child to make choices as an adult and leaves him obeying orders blindly without ever thinking or learning for himself. The intelligent child is bound to resent this type of approach. If the parent persists in demanding blind obedience, the child will grow to hate him.

There is still another reason your husband's approach is injurious and this is sexual. His kind of behavior often leads to sexual perversions. The child may begin to associate sexual feelings with being beaten or whipped or with watching someone else being physically abused.

It's quite possible your husband has mixed emotions when he is punishing your children and his confused feelings may result from the childhood abuse he suffered.

To protect your children's emotional, mental and perhaps even physical health, it's important for you to put a stop to this treatment immediately.

Try to talk with your husband first and if you are not successful, then seek guidance from the outside.

West End to do Donizetta opera

ONTARIO — The West End Opera company will present Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, at 8 p.m. Saturday. James K. Guthrie will conduct.

The opera will be staged in a dress rehearsal for young music lovers in the auditorium at 7 p.m. Friday.

Tickets can be purchased at the Spring box office from 7 to 9 p.m. through Saturday and at Mutural ticket agencies.

Playing the title role is Ann Greene, who was Gilda in last season's "Rigoletto." The coloratura soprano has toured the United States and Europe with the Gregg Smith Singers, recorded for Columbia Records, and appeared in Carnegie Hall, Hollywood Bowl and the Los Angeles Music Center.

The role of Edgardo will be sung by Val Stuart, voice instructor at Scripps College. Stuart has been a guest artist with the Roger Wagner Chorale and won Metropolitan Opera and San Francisco Opera competitions. The tenor has toured the United States, Europe, South America and the Orient and Boston Comic Opera.

Hagop Topouzian (Enrico Ashton) has been acclaimed as Turkey's foremost tenor. His range enables him to take leading tenor and baritone roles. He has more than 20 operatic parts in his repertoire, including four he has done for the West End Opera Company — "Il Tovatore," "Rigoletto," "Carmen" and "La Traviata."

Other leading roles are sung by Stephen Sweetland (Raimondo), Octavio Orochena (Lord Arturo), Betty Jackson (Alisa) and Norman Baffrey (Normanno).

General director of "Lucia" is Charles Gonzales, basso-buffo who has appeared in the West End's "Tosca" and "La Boheme." He also staged "Madame Butterfly," Rigoletto" and "Carmen" for the company. Gonzales has sung with the Metropolitan Opera and Fort Worth (Tex.) Opera. He hosts a children's television show, "Domingo," on Channel 7 Sunday mornings.

Separate parakeet and cat for safety

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Petie, our parakeet, has been giving good natured old George, our cat, a bad time for two years now. But "good old George" almost had the last word Saturday. George caught up with Petie just as he was leaving and, lucky, Petie left. But he left behind his tail feathers—all but one of them. Since then, I have kept Petie in his cage for safe keeping. The question is: If I let him out, can he fly without tail feathers? Or is he earth-bound until he grows in new ones?—D.C.

Dear D.C.: A paucity of posterior plumage wouldn't necessarily deprive Petie of flight. It does mean, though, that his wings will have to work harder to hold him up and they have to do all of the balancing, braking, and steering without any tail and assistance. Since Petie almost lost his flight gear and everything else to George when all his equipment was in working order, he will be an almost sitting duck, so to speak, if he and George have another nonverbal encounter. Actually, Petie's posterior, even with feathers, and the rest of his anatomy, will be secure from George only if you take pains to keep them separated at all times.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been told that when I get my new puppy I will be able to have him vaccinated for worms at the same time he is getting vaccinated for everything else. My last puppy almost died of hookworms so this sounds great to me. Is this vaccine completely safe?—L.J.

Dear L.J.: Happily, hookworms have had it when dogs are immunized with a newly developed hookworm vaccine. (The vaccine used contains irradiated infective hookworm larvae.) These stimulate strong body resistance against normal larvae. Unhappily, these treated larvae, when introduced into a puppy already heavily hookworm parasitized, can cause more problems. It is essential to be sure the puppy isn't already heavily infected with hookworm. If he is, worming is necessary before the hookworm vaccine is given. Finally, immunization of dogs against worms is a technology still in its infancy. The hookworm vaccine will undoubtedly be further perfected. Vaccines against other types of worms have yet to be developed.

Brother slain, second wounded

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—One another seriously wounded Sunday as they and a third brother fought with three other men around the corner from the Hollenbeck police station.

Jesus Linares, 28, was dead at the scene, and his brother, Manuel, 26, was reported in serious condition at County-USC Medical Center with a bullet wound in the back.

Jesus and another brother, Ruben, 27, had come to the aid of Manuel, who was fighting with the other men, who fled after shooting Jesus three times and Manuel once.

Kidnap suspect shoots himself, then surrenders

VICTORVILLE (UPI) — A kidnaping suspect shot himself in the head and surrendered to police surrounding his home Saturday after allegedly wounding one of his two victims in the neck, authorities said.

Robert A. Christensen, 22, was taken to Loma Linda Community Hospital in critical condition.

His alleged victims were Susan McCall, 20, and Holly Nollner, 19.

Miss McCall was in fair condition at San Bernardino Community Hospital with a gunshot wound and lacerations. Miss Nollner was in good condition at Victor Valley Hospital with minor injuries.

The women escaped from Christensen after he allegedly abducted them Friday night.

Police said Christensen wounded himself after officers tried to talk him out of his home. They said a single shot was heard and Christensen walked out moments later. He fired several shots at officers when they arrived, police said.

Fly the Chicago Expressway and beat the clock.

We've got the best on-time record in the business.

The last thing you want when you've got appointments or people to meet is to be late.

The Chicago Expressway

And between Los Angeles and Chicago, Continental has been the most consistently on-time airline of them all.

According to the latest published Civil Aeronautics Board figures*, Continental has come out on top in all but two of the 42 months covered in the C.A.B. records (January 1970-June 1973).

Far and away the best performance of all airlines flying that route.

And we haven't slowed down either. For the first six months of 1973 we again finished in first place. Still the most on-time airline.

Courteous, swift and efficient—from the moment you arrive at curbside for your Expressway check-in, all the way through to the speedy way we handle your baggage after you've landed.

So if punctuality means something to you, fly with us on the Chicago Expressway.

You'll be aboard with the biggest clock watchers of all.

*On-time performance means being within 15 minutes of scheduled arrival time on all flights performed between Los Angeles and Chicago. Data based on latest figures from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

YES NOW IS A GOOD TIME

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Reason and graciousness are your best allies today. Use them to accomplish goals and win favor with others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A favorable change is occurring in a situation that has been seesawing recently. The outcome will please all involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is a good day to kiss and make up if your love life hasn't been all you've hoped for lately. Better understanding is now possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Things can be smoothed over today in an area where you found only rejection and hostility yesterday. It will require compromise from both parties.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take advantage of the present shifting conditions where work or career is concerned. Changes can offer advancement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Information will be coming your way that could either save or make you money. Treat it confidentially while you investigate its reliability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today's events will contribute to your basic security and peace of mind. All that is happening at this time is not readily visible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial picture continues to look bright and encouraging. Add to your peace of mind. However, seek a diversionary mental interest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone will come to you for help. Do what you can without going overboard. They may not be able to repay for a long time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be meeting a person through a friend who will later prove to be a valuable contact. This person has far-reaching influence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Make it a point to do more listening than talking today if involved in a group activity. Something you'll hear of will tie in with your plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) For doors you can't open yourself go directly to the one you know who can. He'll get things moving.

Nov. 28

There will be an improvement in your finances this year. This will give you the chance to do some of the things you've been holding in abeyance.

Two killed in shootout

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A policeman and a man armed with a shotgun died in a streetcorner shootout Friday night, authorities said.

Capt. Thomas H. Smith of the Memphis police homicide bureau said policeman Edward John Hammond Jr., 27, and a man identified as Jerry Arthur Jr., 59, were killed in the gunfire.

"The police department received a call to an armed person at Chelsea and McNeil," Smith said.

"When they arrived on the scene, a male black refused to drop his weapon and turned and shot Patrolman Hammond in the face with a shotgun," Smith said.

Average oil well

An average oil well in the United States produces almost 13 barrels, or 542 galls, a day.

The doctor comments

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been on birth control pills for a number of years. During the past two years I have begun to have what my doctor calls migraine headaches. He took me off the pills for four months to see if my headaches would stop, and they did. Not one headache the whole time I was off the pill.

I began the pill again because we definitely do not want more children. I am having the headaches on the average of one a week. My question is, do you think my headaches will stop completely if I quit the pill completely?

Also, I noticed that while I was off the pill my sex drive increased sharply. Now that I am back on the pill I've noticed a decrease. Do pills decrease the sex drive in some women? If I thought the change would be a lasting one I would gladly quit them, permanently.

DEAR READER — To begin with, migraine headaches are caused or precipitated by many different factors. There are reports of some women having increased attacks with birth control pills. And, your history certainly suggests that they may be a factor in your case.

I would not like to tell you that you would not have any more headaches if you stopped the pill permanently. There are too many other things in life that can precipitate a headache and so you may still have them. It does sound as if you would not have nearly the problem, though, that you now have.

Some women apparently do experience a decrease in sexual desire when they are on the pill. However, there are a lot of different kinds of pills. They have different ratios of female hormones. This means that one pill might be better suited to one woman than another. Often some of these problems can be solved by using a different pill. It is no longer really right to use the blanket term "pill" as is so often done, because a variety of effects can be obtained from the many types of pills available.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 16 years old and have considered a weight lifting program. However, lately I have been told that having thick muscles may cause a person to slow or stop his growth. Is there anything to this? Also, what is your opnion on weightlifting and other elated isotonic exercies? Is it beneficial to good health?

DEAR READER — If weight training and related exercises are done properly I'm confident they are good for your health. Many a person would develop a healthier body with even a fairly modest program of this type. It isn't necessary to develop exceptionally large musices to accomplish some good. Such programs to help develop strength. That helps to develop and maintain good posture. And, I suspect that maintaining good posture even into the older years is much more important to health than many people realize. Such programs will not stunt your growth. They may even help it.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York,N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.
